NO. 113—EIGHTY-FIFTH YEAR — VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, FRIDAY, APRIL 23, 1943 — SIXTEEN PAGES

Hundreds of Nazis Are Mowed Down On Caucasus Front

Infantry Company Annihilated—Daily Plane Losses Heavy

LONDON, April 22 (CP).—Soviet troops mowed down hundreds of Germans still attacking their Kuban River valley lines north of the enemy bridgehead at Novorossisk in the Caucasus, and the Red Air Force made mass raids on Nazi military formations and other targets, Moscow announced tonight.

Three hundred Germans were killed in attempting to take one hilltop and hundreds also fell in another sector, said the midnight communique recorded by the Soviet monitor.

The Soviet Baltic Fleet's air force attacking enemy ports in that area was said to have caused serious damage to installations, shot down thirteen planes, and destroyed a patrol ship and three troop landing craft.

This presumably referred to the attack on Kotka on the Finnish coast, midway between Leningrad and Helsinki. A Finnish communique had claimed earlier that a Soviet assault on that port was repelled by Finnish anti-aircraft artillery.

RUSSIAN GUNS SILENCE BATTERIES

On the front west of Moscow the Russian communique said one enemy infantry company was annihilated and three artillery and mortar batteries silenced by Russian guns. South of Bely, eighty miles northwest of Smolensk, another Soviet group killed sixty Germans and blew up two blockhouses and an artillery battery.

The constant German attacks in the Caucasus apparently were aimed at retaining a foothold there for future operations when the ground becomes firmer and at the same time keep the Russians from employing their full strength elsewhere on the long front.

The official news agency Tass reported today that the invader had concentrated several hundred planes in the single Kuban area of the Caucasus and that neither by day nor by night was there any rest for the contending airmen.

The German plane losses, it was added, were running to twenty to thirty a day.

The German Command for the first time in several days did not mention the Kuban front. It claimed the destruction of seventy-seven Soviet planes on the Russian front general at the cost of two German craft, attributing to the Finns twenty of the Soviet planes alleged to have been shot down.

Air Raids Resume Over Continent

R.A.F. Attacks Many Targets

LONDON, April 22 (CP).—Ending a twelve-hour lull in the Allied aerial pounding of the continent, the R.A.F. attacked railways, shipping and other military targets today in a series of extended raids over France, Belgium and Holland.

At least one locomotive was destroyed and three others were damaged near Ghent in Belgium, the Air Ministry reported. Another train attacked at La Chadelle, just east of Lille, France, apparently was carrying troops, as the pilot reported seeing men in uniform scrambling to safety.

Fighting planes diving on a flotilla of four ships off the east coast of Holland severely damaged an E-boat and an armed trawler. The E-boat was hit by a Typhoon pilot, E. A. McGree, of Wallaceburg, Ont., who saw men jump into the water after the ship took fire. Trains also were bombed and machine-gunned in the St. Genois area, and barges on the Lys Canal were hit.

Naval Casualties

OTTAWA, April 22 (CP).—In its 169th casualty list of the war, the Royal Canadian Navy tonight named one man as previously reported missing on active service, now reported dead as of February 26, and one man as missing on active service.

Following is the list:

Previously reported missing on active service, now reported dead as of February 26, 1943—Engine-Room Artificer Third Class Robert Oliver, R.C.N.V.R., Halifax.

Missing on active service—P.O. Gerald Wolfred Hartlen, R.C.N., Halifax.

Bases in S. Pacific Pounded

Much Damage Done To Installations

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP).—Japan's Nauru base in the Gilbert Islands, a strategic outpost guarding the southern approaches to the great Truk bastion in the South Pacific, was heavily damaged Wednesday by United States Army bombers in a long-range daylight attack.

The Navy Department announced the action today in a communique which described the raiding force as large and reported that despite heavy anti-aircraft fire and resistance from fighter planes "much damage was done to Japanese installations."

"United States pilots shot down five and possibly seven Zero fighters," the communique said. "All United States planes returned."

Thousands of miles away, in the North Pacific, another army air force under Naval Command continued its remorseless pounding of the Japanese base on Kiska Island. The enemy camp and airfields in the-making were bombed and strafed Thursday in the 113th raid on the island this month.

The attack on Nauru stirred speculation that it might indicate coming events of importance in the South Pacific war zone.

The little island stands on the northeastern flank of a corridor of relatively open sea from American bases in the vicinity of the New Hebrides to the Caroline Islands in the north. The great Japanese naval base of Truk stands at the northwestern end of this corridor.

On a strictly geographical basis the corridor furnishes one of the avenues of approach for a sea-attack on Truk. The Japanese undoubtedly have used Nauru as a base for reconnaissance planes keeping watch over this avenue. One of the objectives of American attacks on the island would be to knock out such reconnaissance.

Norwegian Air Force Trains in Canada

In spite of the fact that Norway was one of the first countries to come under the German heel, it now has an air force much more powerful than it possessed before the war, now encamped at "Little Norway," near Gravenhurst, Ont. The new air force is supported largely by revenue from the Norwegian Merchant Marine, which escaped the clutches of the Germans. Shown above is a flight of Norwegian trainers at Camp Little, Norway.

News of Executions of Airmen Causes Bond Sales to Soar

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP).—Stirred by the Japanese executions of captured American airmen, many cities and states today overshot their quotas in the $13,000,000,000 second War Loan campaign.

New York announced the second Federal reserve district had oversubscribed by $475,000,000 its $3,000,000,000 quota for non-banking buyers, and had declared a new quota for $4,000,000,000.

Chicago reported that bond sales in Lake and Cook counties leaped from $6,000,000 to $15,000,000.

Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau, Jr., announced that as of Tuesday night a total of $11,322,000,000 had been subscribed.

With more than $2,000,000,000 to come from banks at the end of this month, the drive is assured of exceeding its goal.

Bomber Wins Long Battle Against Four

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, April 23 (Friday) (CP).—A heavy American bomber over Kavieng, New Ireland, fought off four Japanese fighters yesterday in a battle which extended over 150 miles, the High Command announced today.

Japanese positions at Nassau Bay, near Salamaua, New Guinea, were heavily bombed and strafed in another aerial action.

Two-engined bombers and attack planes took part in the Nassau Bay attack. The communique said "heavy damage was caused to Daufia and Labahia Islands and villages along the bay's south shore."

At Nubia, New Guinea, a single four-engined bomber attacked artillery emplacements.

Northwest of Australia, a medium bomber raided the village of Wailoetoe, near Saumlaki, in the Tanimbar Islands.

Dobo, on the Aroe Islands, was raided anew by one medium bomber, which attacked the enemy supply base.

BULLETIN

STRIKE AVERTED

MONTREAL, April 22 (CP).—A threatened strike in Montreal's bakery industry was averted tonight with the announcement that the Provincial Government had appointed a member of the Minimum Wage Board to investigate demands of the National Syndicate of Bakers and Pastry Cooks for union recognition and wage increases.

Bus Drivers Hold Up Work In 100 Plants

AURORA, Ill., April 22 (AP).—Public transportation in an area embracing five cities and about 100 war plants was halted today when seventy-seven A.F.L. union bus drivers and maintenance men refused to work in protest against a Regional War Labor Board "hold-the-line" order by denying them a wage increase of seven cents an hour.

PERMIT SOME BUSES TO RUN

Relief was provided stranded war-plant workers late today when union chiefs, after a conference with officers of the United States Army transport zone, consented to the operation of a few buses to carry employees to and from the plants at the late afternoon and 11 p.m. shift changes.

About 25,000 persons using the bus lines within the cities and along the twenty-two-mile route between Elgin and Aurora were notified of their transportation problems this morning by radio and patrolling police squad cars. The other cities affected were Batavia, Geneva and St. Charles.

Thousands Strike at Ford Plant

WINDSOR, Ont., April 21 (CP).—The giant plant No. 2 of the Ford Motor Company of Canada was idle tonight when 3,000 workers who reported for duty at 4 p.m. found the power shut off after a stay-in strike involving 5,000 workers on the day shift.

The day-shift workers who had stopped work early this morning left the plant at 3:30 p.m. after remaining inside all day, and after a company appeal for police assistance in removing them from the property had been refused by the Windsor Police Commission at a special meeting.

Conferences between officials of the United Automobile Workers of America (C.I.O.) and company officials ended tonight without agreement.

Roy England, president of the Ford local of the union, said negotiations with company officials had broken off at 5 o'clock this afternoon, although "we were prepared to stay up all night and negotiate on a fair basis." He said he hoped "Government intervention" would result in resumption of the conferences.

Mr. England stated that as far as the union is concerned all shifts, including the midnight shift tonight, would report for work. Whether they actually worked, he added, "is up to the company."

Mr. England said in a statement that the work stoppage in plant No. 2, largest of the three Ford plants here, resulted from a company order requiring one man to complete an operation formerly done by two. He said the job required the placing of a 204-pound casting in a machine, and that one man who had attempted it alone suffered bruises to his side and stomach and required hospital treatment.

Warn of Black Market in Gas Ration Coupons

Heavy Theft of Books In East in Few Weeks

TORONTO, April 22 (CP).—Close upon disclosure by police today that 365 loose gasoline coupons were stolen last night from two downtown service stations, Inspector of Detectives M. Mulholland warned station and garage owners that a gang of black marketers in ration books is operating in the city.

A special squad of R.C.M.P. officers has been detailed to work with the municipal and provincial police throughout Canada and the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the United States, to wipe out a black market in gasoline coupon books operating on a large scale in the Eastern provinces, the inspector revealed.

Several arrests have been made, and Inspector Mulholland expects more in a few days.

In the last few weeks there has been a heavy theft of books and coupons in Toronto, Windsor, Hamilton, Brampton and Montreal. More than 3,000 loose coupons and four commercial category books, good for 500 gallons, were stolen in Oshawa on Tuesday night.

LIQUOR RATION DETAILS

VANCOUVER, April 22 (CP).—Details of plans for rationing liquor in British Columbia, effective May 1, will be announced next Wednesday or Thursday, W. F. Kennedy, chairman of the British Columbia Liquor Control Board, said today.

TODAY, Good Friday, is being observed as a holiday by the staff of The Daily Colonist. There will be no issue of the paper tomorrow.

Canadians Build Chapel for Hospitable English Villagers

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, April 22 (CP).—Canadian sappers are building a little brick chapel for the people of an English village whose church was wrecked by a Nazi bomb two years ago.

Until the job is completed, village homes have been opened to the small part of concrete-makers, brick-layers and carpenters drawn from four units of the Royal Canadian Engineers.

When the sappers put hammers and trowels away after a day's work the villagers won't hear of them spending as much as a penny for a cup of tea and in the pub their pint of ale is always prepaid.

"The folks treat us well," said L.-Sgt. Cliff Barge, of St. James, Man., in charge of the building party of twelve and its cook. Barge who described himself as a "peace-time 'jack-of-all-trades,'" said the job was right up the sappers' alley.

Vicar Baker said the bomb that wrecked his church and demolished the vicarage next door fell April 19, 1941. The forty-eight-year-old pastor who was in the vicarage with his sister was trapped when it collapsed. His sister died of shock shortly after.

Injured himself by flying glass, the vicar said the bombing killed nine persons and had a profound effect on the village. "We were all more or less damaged," he added. "We appreciate the work these men are doing."

Capt. George Wolfendale, of Montreal, R.C.E. padre, took over the parish while Vicar Baker was in hospital and, according to the vicar, had a lot to do with the fact the Canadians are erecting the chapel.

Tommy Paquin, of Winnipeg, a brick-layer and plasterer in peace-time, helped lay out what they call a "honeycomb bond" on the concrete base to support a wooden floor.

L.-Sgt. Harry Towns, of Winnipeg, was in charge of brick work when the job started but returned to his unit once the chapel walls began to go up.

They went up so fast that soon Spra. Walter Glenn, of Strathclair, Man., and Len Mitchell, of Winnipeg, all "concreters," climbed up to help the carpenters raise rafters for the steep roof.

Jimmy Logue, Prince Albert, Sask., and Jack Nightingale, Winnipeg, were two of the carpenters. Their forman, L.-Cpl. Bill Lewis, Winnipeg, selected much of their material from the remains of the church.

When the chapel is complete one of the finishing touches will have been the work of L.-Cpl. Charlie Milan, of Winnipeg, peacetime plumber, who has built a neat wall at the front of the lot with bricks from rubble of the vicarage.

Negro Convicted in Sleeping Car Murder

ALBANY, Ore., April 22 (AP).—Robert E. Lee Folkes, negro dining-car cook, today was convicted of murder in the sleeping car slaying of Mrs. Martha Virginia James. The jury made no clemency recommendation, making the death penalty mandatory.

The twenty-year-old negro thus became subject to death in the gas chamber at the Oregon State Penitentiary.

The jury deliberated seventeen hours, twenty-three minutes.

Folkes was convicted of sneaking into the Lower 13 berth of Mrs. James, bride of a naval officer, and slashing her throat as the train thundered through the snow-mantled Oregon countryside last January 23.

Bombs Fall in U.S. Village

SPOKANE, Wash., April 22 (AP).—The Spokesman-Review's correspondent at Warden reported tonight that five practice bombs fell in the village early Wednesday from a lone bombing plane.

The article said the plane apparently was astray from its target. All bombs struck within the village, but no buildings were struck by the light missiles, it was added. The town blacked out during the incident.

High Water of Boise Receding

BOISE, Idaho, April 22 (AP).—High waters in the Boise River, which spread over thousands of acres of farmland during the past week, continued to recede today.

Not all of the muddy waters have returned to their channels, but many of the new rights of way dug during the high water period are emptying, and farms that were partially covered are beginning to dry off.

Eighth Army Infantry Uses Bayonets and Grenades to Smash Axis Mountain Nests

From Europe Day by Day—

THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1943, by Southam Co.)

LONDON, April 22.—A break through Rommel's defence lines in Tunisia, says The Times' military correspondent in a survey of the battle, has not yet been attempted.

German defences are sited in depth in three zones, the outer zone, battle zone and rear zone, and these must be destroyed in turn.

In places the British have had to fight their way through cactus hedges which are worse obstacles than barbed wire. Also the Germans are holding a wire perimeter around the main bases, thus offering no opening for a flank attack, so successful on the Mareth line.

Chief possibility is a series of concentrated thrusts to relieve the Eighth Army of part of the main task.

The general character of the fighting at present, says The Times' Algiers correspondent, is a series of confused isolated mountain engagements preliminary to bigger battles. It is no country for tanks, but rather for slow infantry gains.

Rommel, however, has his back to the sea at last, and his further withdrawal becomes impossible. Italian troops have largely disappeared and there are only a few now in the coastal area.

* * *

Hitler's new tactics, according to The Times' diplomatic correspondent, are to offer vassal states lavish promises of future favors from Germany, provided they give more aid and agree to economic slavery now.

But the Nazis themselves admit, by implication, these promises are nothing more than deceptions. They have already written their bogus new charter in blood across Europe.

Having overdone warnings of the gravity of the war to the German people; the Nazis now are emphasizing the wonders of their defensive Atlantic wall and the success of their U-boats. But all evidence from Germany suggests the people are lapsing into apathy while the Gestapo's grip grows ever tighter around them. As they know so little about what is happening in the war, they are not so apprehensive as their leaders.

* * *

Surveying the war in China and aid from the Allies, The Times' correspondent, recently in the Far East, says China, having fought Japan singlehanded for six years, feels deeply disappointed that her war should take secondary place to war against Hitler.

Premier Churchill's recent speech promising partial demobilization of British forces after Germany is beaten caused much resentment, and one Chinese newspaper even suggested the Allies were betraying China. However, they now realize this demobilization may be necessary since shipping will not be available to convey huge armies to China even after Hitler's downfall.

In the last war the British Commonwealth mobilized 9,000,000 for the armed forces and the United States 4,300,000. Today both the British Empire and the United States will exceed this figure—India already has 2,000,000 troops under arms—and China has millions more.

* * *

As Britain and the United States cannot hope to transport even 5,000,000 men to the Far East, the balance must be demobilized when the war in Europe ends. Whatever form the war against Japan may take, it is obvious, says The Times' correspondent, that the best help

Gains South of Tunis Unhalted; First Army Crushes Enemy Blow

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, April 22 (AP).—British Eighth Army infantry, using bayonets and grenades, smashed into Axis mountain nests south of Tunis today in an unhalted advance after the First Army crushed a diversionary blow west of the capital by destroying twenty-seven tanks and capturing 500 elite German troops.

The Eighth Army was reported to have gained three miles north and west of Enfidaville since the offensive began in that sector Monday night, and a spokesman said violent fighting, much of it hand to hand, raged all day.

A delayed dispatch from Noland Norgaard, an Associated Press correspondent at the front, said the Eighth Army yesterday seized Takrouna, three miles northwest of Enfidaville, except for mopping up operations, and was pushing into the salt marsh area of Sebkra Sidi Kralifa, north of Enfidaville.

BRITISH FACE FORMIDABLE TASK

Farther inland in the Djebel Garci area the British forces, however, faced a formidable task of cleaning out enemy gunposts on the sheer sides of those hills, and infantrymen and mules were carrying supplies into country too difficult for motorized transport.

In the north Lt.-Gen. Kenneth Anderson's First Army, including parachute troops, withstood a powerful German counter-attack aimed at easing the pressure on Marshal Rommel's southern forces, and inflicted "considerable casualties" on the enemy southeast of Medjez-El-Bab.

Five battalions of crack German troops, including three from the Hermann Goering Jaeger Regiment and one from the Goering Grenadiers, were thrown against the First Army lines Tuesday night on an eight-mile front between Medjez-El-Bab and Goubellat.

At least seventy German tanks also were put into the struggle later, but the British force destroyed a third of them, including two sixty-ton Mark VI Tigers.

The Germans attacked by moonlight, apparently trying to capture the hills in a "V" formed by the roads leading from Medjez-El-Bab to Goubellat and El Aroussa.

But they met such strong opposition and suffered such heavy losses that there was only minor infiltration of the British lines. By dawn the Axis decided to give up a bad job and withdraw, but British infantry kept up a rain of fire and refused to allow the Germans to disengage.

CALL TANK FORCE TO COVER RETREAT

It was at this point that the Germans called up their huge tank forces in an effort to cover their re-

Will Check Job Seekers On Call-Up

Must Furnish Proof They Have Complied

OTTAWA, April 22 (CP).—Men applying to National Selective Service after April 30 for permits to obtain employment will have to furnish proof that they have complied with mobilization regulations, the Labor Department announced tonight.

The departmental announcement said the new regulation will refer to men born in any year from 1902 to 1924 inclusive. Men born in these years are in the age classes subject to military call-up.

The purpose of the regulation is to locate men who have not hitherto complied with the call-up, said the department.

A certificate of discharge from the forces during the present war; an army rejection slip; a medical examination certificate from the Mobilization Board, or a postponement order from the board will be accepted as proof of compliance with mobilization.

Any man who has not been called because he is married, or a widower with children, will be required to make a statutory declaration on his marital status at the time he applies for an employment permit.

The call-up applies to all single men born in the years 1902 to 1924 inclusive, and to married men aged nineteen to twenty-five inclusive. Childless widowers and men divorced or judicially separated from their wives, born in the years 1902 to 1924 also are liable.

MUST SEND PROOF WITH APPLICATION

Applicants writing from outside points to Employment and Selective Service offices for permits are expected to send along such proof of their position under mobilization regulations as they may have, the announcement said.

It quoted Labor Minister Mitchell as saying: "It is not intended that the new regulations shall interfere with the worker speedily securing employment nor with employers securing the workers they need, so long as we have reason to believe that the applicant is in good standing under mobilization regulations.

"Special instructions are being issued to Employment and Selective Service offices, to insure that permits will be forthcoming wherever a man seems to have abided by the regulations. However, we have to use all possible means of locating those who may not have behaved as required by law."

The statement said Labor Department officials expressed the opinion that the number of defaulters must be quite small, as the registration of single men earlier this year had brought in a substantial number of those not previously located.

Bracken Says Work Can Be Made for All

Postwar Problems May Be Easily Met

PENTICTON, April 22 (CP).—John Bracken, Progressive Conservative party leader, said here today that if Canada utilizes fully its resources and capital after the war, jobs can be provided for everyone at fair wages for a fair day's work.

Speaking at a dinner in his honor, Mr. Bracken contrasted the $5,000,000,000 being spent annually on war with the expenditures during the previous ten years.

"We are spending today fifty times as much for war as we did on relief," he said. "This is possible today because we are using our resources to the full. By utilizing fully our resources and capital after the war, we can provide a job for everyone at fair wages for a fair day's work."

Before reaching Penticton, Mr. Bracken visited Kelowna, Peachland and Summerland where he made addresses. Friday he continues his tour of the Fraser Valley.

In his Penticton address the Progressive Conservative leader pictured the necessity for meeting the challenge that would come with peace, when 600,000 men from Canada would put off the King's uniform and another 1,000,000 would leave war industries to seek employment.

Canada must be prepared, he said, to provide employment for these servicemen and war workers. It was a tremendous task, but, he said, "in a democracy it will be done if 51 per cent of the people want it to be done."

The greatest responsibility that any people had to shoulder rested with the people of this generation, and with the people of Canada today. He declared Canadians were confronted with a three-fold challenge: to win the war; to play our part in ending wars, and in preparing a better world in the future than existed in the past. In the new economy, he said, every man must have the right and opportunity of earning his own living.

Tokio Threatens Death for U.S. Flyers if Bomb Japan

NEW YORK, April 22 (CP).—Japan spoke bluntly to a horrified United States today, promising a "one-way ticket to hell" for every American flyer participating in future bombing raids on Japan.

Implied in the Japanese broadcast, recorded by the United States Federal Communications Commission, was a threat to execute every airman captured. This followed a Domei News Agency broadcast beamed at the United States which referred to the execution of American flyers taken prisoner after the air raid on Tokio last April and said "this same policy will continue to be enforced in the future."

Newspapers here used their largest headline type to tell of the Japanese atrocities and carried bitter editorials.

"We shall hold personally responsible those who were guilty of this crime, however high or low their station, and we shall in due course bring these evil men to justice," said The New York Times.

Said The New York Herald-Tribune: "This unspeakable piece of naive barbarism is characteristic of the essentially savage and primitive minds against whom we are fighting; it is unnecessary for this country to imitate it, but it is well to remind the Japanese that such things cannot be forgotten."

"On the day of victory we shall remember Pearl Harbor," said The

Eighth Army's Great Victory At El Alamein Vividly Depicted

"Desert Victory," British Documentary Film, Magnificent Record of Actual Battle

By SANDHAM GRAVES

THE fruits of victory ever are sweet, but how great was the victory of the British Eighth Army over German-Italian divisions composing the Axis' desert army in Libya can be seen now from the documentary record of the actual action, photographed on the spot.

In "Desert Victory," an official British film opening today for a week at the Dominion Theatre, every phase of the now historic action from El Alamein to Tripoli can be followed as it actually occurred. A preview of the film yesterday for the benefit of military and other staffs drew from Brigadier R. A. Fraser, commanding divisional artillery here, the comment: "It is a magnificent picture. This is action. It is the real thing!"

With that verdict most people who see "Desert Victory," in fifty-eight packed and crowded minutes of actual battle sequence, will agree.

It was at El Alamein that the British, who invented the tank, turned that weapon upon Marshal Erwin Rommel with deadly precision and effect. It was at El Alamein that the British united army, navy and air force hitting power into one consolidated thrust, with a use of radio that we had learned from the enemy himself. It was at El Alamein that the enemy was outwitted, out-generaled and out-fought; and precipitated upon the longest military retreat in history, one that has now stretched 1,600 miles from El Alamein to beyond Enfidaville.

It was at El Alamein, finally, that British infantry, artillery, tanks and planes taught the enemy something new in the annals of blitzkrieg warfare.

PHOTOGRAPHERS KILLED IN ACTION

The picture shows it well. Four photographers were killed, seven wounded and six captured during the progress of its making. Part of the film is taken directly from the German official record; captured film showing Marshal Rommel receiving his baton from Adolf Hitler, directing his men in the field, and so on. But most of the film was taken by men who followed the attack by sea, in the air and on foot, and men who were right up in the actual action.

The result is a document which depicts modern warfare as nothing else could—from the sappers who probed for the mines sown by the enemy, and the fighter pilots who shot down Stukas from the sky, to the pipers who played their men over the top in a hail of concentrated fire.

"Desert Victory"—it will be an exhibit at military staff colleges for many a day to come—shows General Montgomery's brilliant tactics and why they succeeded. The actual plan of battle is worked out in relief on the screen. It consisted of a feint in the centre, a diversionary attack in the south and a hammer blow in the north; with infantry opening the way for the mass of General Montgomery's armor.

The Germans, who had prepared a trap for the British, fell into a counter-trap; were split in half at the opening round of the battle; lost their armor in one decisive pitched battle; were routed and thrown into a flight from which there was no turning or hope of recovery. At El Alamein, the British Eighth Army won the battles of Egypt, Libya, Tripolitania — and two-thirds of Tunisia—at a single stroke.

UNCONQUERABLE EIGHTH ARMY

One has, however, to see it happen to understand how that was possible; to understand the courage, coolness and unity that made the British Eighth Army an unconquerable team.

The picture shows the opening military barrage, which rivaled that on the Somme in 1916 at its fiercest; the steadiness of British infantry advancing to attack under fire; the unremitting work of the artillery, tanks and machine gunners; how the Royal Navy followed the advance to open up supply port after supply port.

It shows, too, how the Royal Air Force turned Rommel's flight into a nightmare, through dust storm, rain and mud; where the skies were swept clear of the enemy and the crooked crosses left in twisted, blackened hulks on the ground.

It is not at all pretty, is the "Desert Victory," but it is real. It is war in the year 1942 and 1943. It is the brand of war, moreover, that the United Nations are now capable of bringing to bear upon the aggressors in the world conflict. It is blitzkrieg raised a notch or two, and given a United Nations' cap. And in the face of that blitzkrieg the enemy wilts just as readily as his victims did in the fight-and-run days of 1939, 1940 and 1941, before freedom itself had the tools to even commence the job.

At its end, "Desert Victory" brings two beloved figures onto the screen in a triumph which they jointly had brought about. One is General Sir Bernard Montgomery, the successor to Allenby and Wavell in British annals. The other is a stout, stocky gentleman with a long cigar, the "V" sign, and a happy, boyish grin — Prime Minister Churchill himself.

PRIZE-WINNING BLOSSOM

Men in the forces feel that what is done at home in the factory can and does save lives in the field. British, United States, Indian, Canadian and Australian factories fought at El Alamein as surely as the men of the 51st Highland Division, Australians, New Zealanders, Sikhs, bluejackets and the men in flying blue. Best of all—and eternally fitting in the grand paradoxes of life—General Montgomery doesn't look like a soldier. He looks like a gardener superintending a Victory plot, with a salute that would bring tears to the eyes of a drill sergeant.

But there is that desert garden Montgomery of El Alamein produced a Victory which time will hold high among the prize-winning blossoms of all!

Threatens Death

World-Telegram. "And we shall remember the murder of these military prisoners."

A statement from the War Department in Washington said a further raid on Tokio is a "decided possibility."

Stressing that Japan would "leave nothing undone" to prevent further aerial attacks, the latest English-language warning from Tokio said: "And by the way, don't forget, America—make sure that every flyer that comes here has a special pass to hell and rest assured it's strictly a one-way ticket."

The Japanese Home and Empire broadcast did not include President Roosevelt's denunciation of the executions as "an act of barbarity" nor mention Mr. Roosevelt's promise that all officials connected with the crime against military law would be punished. Instead, they called his statement "A protest full of complaints" and said it was made to "provoke the fighting spirit of the American people."

The broadcast said the President was "completely ignoring the inhuman deeds of this air force unit of his own nation" in a "desperate attempt to unify the national effort, which often tends to become disunified, by making entirely rootless accusations."

ALL JAPANESE BROADCASTS SIMILAR

All the Japanese broadcasts somewhere took the same propaganda line—that Americans were disappointed in the results of last April's raid on Tokio and that the Government was taking counter-measures to allay that feeling.

"General Doolittle," the Tokio radio said, "has assumed the false colors of a hero in conspiracy with President Roosevelt." Domei, with clumsy jocularity, said that "Doolittle, commander of the raid on Japan one year ago, failed to do anything, so we have the pleasure of offering him the title of 'Did-Little.'"

"Two can play at the same game of bombing," another Tokio commentator said, adding: "You know, you raid us and we raid you. It's all part of the war, Americans."

ADDS EXPLOSIVE FUEL TO CONTROVERSY

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP).—The "murder in cold blood" of American Army flyers captured by the Japanese after last year's raid on Japan has added explosive fuel to the fire of controversy over Pacific strategy, United States Army observers believe.

They foresee, not only a rising tide of public anger against an enemy capable of committing such acts, but sharpened demands for expedited offensive action against the Japanese.

Disclosure of the new Japanese atrocity came at a time when pressure for aggressive action against Japan both in the Australian zone and in the Aleutians was rising. First reactions in Congress to the executions, officially castigated as "murders in cold blood" by official American communications, went farther than expressions of horror.

They called for prompt retaliation, which under the United States Government's policy would be possible at present only in the form of offensive military action. Under-Secretary of War Patterson made plain today that there would be no retaliation against Japanese prisoners; that punishment would be reserved for the Nipponese officers or officials who instigated the crime.

MAY NOT ALTER WAR PRIORITIES

Whether even a 'tidal-wave' of public demands for military action against the Pacific foe for this new act of infamy could lead to a further revision of military priorities in favor of the Pacific theatre or any substantial change in the strategic directives worked out at the Casablanca conferences no informed official was willing to predict.

They freely admitted nevertheless, that the fate of the murdered American flyers had created a new psychological factor in the Pacific situation and that once the fight to clear the Tunisian hump has been won, redoubled pressure for building up an adequate striking force against Japan would be felt.

Meanwhile, two of the participants in the Doolittle raid on Japan today branded as "a damned lie" Japanese assertions that the American flyers attacked non-combatants. Captain Ted Lawson, of Los Angeles, and Captain Harold F. Watson, of Hartford, Conn., told of following to the letter their instructions to blast only specified military objectives.

Says Invasion News Likely to Spread Quickly

Churchill Believes Bells Not Needed

LONDON, April 22 (CP).—Amid laughter, Prime Minister Churchill ventured the opinion in the House of Commons today that news of "anything like a serious invasion would be bound to leak out" in Britain although silencing of church bells so they could ring only as an invasion warning has been abandoned.

"How could the news possibly leak out," asked Austin Hopkinson, Independent, "when it would be an offence to spread alarm and despondency?"

FACTUAL STATEMENTS ARE PERMITTED

When the laughter had died again the Prime Minister replied that "a factual statement of that kind would not fall within that category."

Mr. Churchill announced this week that beginning with Good Friday church bells would be permitted to ring for the first time since 1940 for Sunday services and religious services.

In response to questions, he told the House there would be no substitute for the invasion signal, adding:

"The improbability of invasion depends upon the high degree of preparation maintained in this country."

Smash Axis Nests

tiring troops, and lost twenty-seven of them.

These tanks, too, were said to have been manned by picked crews who already had seen action at Fondouk, Kasserine Pass and Maknassy in Lower Tunisia.

The First Army on Tuesday had seized a hill called "Banana Ridge" paralleling the road between Medjez-El-Bab and Tunis before the Axis launched its counter-attack.

When the Axis blow failed, the First Army recovered the wrecks of the twenty-seven enemy tanks and further consolidated its positions menacing the approaches to the Tunisian capital.

The Eighth Army's advance in the south was slow and painful. Fighting on a ten-mile front running from the coast north of Enfidaville inland through Takrouna to the Djebel Garci sector on the men are confronted with Axis strongholds carved into hillsides and well-camouflaged.

An Allied communique said massed artillery had broken two major enemy counter-attacks yesterday "with heavy loss to the enemy," and that "our positions were generally improved and all gains firmly held."

MUST RUSH POSTS WITH BAYONETS

But nearly every fold of earth hides an Axis mortar or field gun, and Gen. Montgomery's desert troops now must rush these positions with bayonets or creep up to blast them out with grenades.

Unfavorable weather again limited Allied air activity over the Axis-held Tunisian corner, but fighters and bombers kept up a day-long pounding of roads and airfields.

The communique reported the destruction of fourteen more Axis planes during Wednesday night and yesterday at a cost of four Allied aircraft. This raised the toll of Axis planes to 165 destroyed in four days.

Malta-based R.A.F. Spitfires also knocked down four more Junker-52 transports and heavy R.A.F. bombers attacking the Italian port of Naples again Tuesday night scored hits on docks and started two fires near oil installations. The Cairo communique said none of the Naples raiders was lost.

Light Allied naval forces again were in action in the Mediterranean, sinking a small enemy supply ship northwest of Sicily and hitting a number of German E-boats encountered off the coast near the naval base of Bizerte.

FIGHT DOGGEDLY IN CLOSE QUARTERS

WITH THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY IN TUNISIA, April 22.—Fighting doggedly at close quarters with grenades and bayonets, British troops mopped up German and Italian forces still holding out Wednesday in and near the mountain top stronghold of Takrouna several miles northwest of Enfidaville.

British artillery broke up and dispersed German tank and infantry units which had moved up for a counter-attack from the northwest, and now the Eighth Army's hold on Takrouna definitely is secured after thirty-six hours of bloody close-range combat.

Emerging from dugouts and caves on the slopes leading up to the old Berber citadel crowning the mountain, Axis troops late Tuesday wrested the crest from the British troops.

After a sharp fight through the night British officers sent word back to Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery at noon Wednesday that the citadel had been retaken, and that only 200 Germans and Italians remained to be blasted out of a few remaining dugout positions.

On the coast the British forces pushed patrols northward from Enfidaville toward Marshal Rommel's new defence line which is anchored on the Sebkra Sidi Kralifa, a salt march between the coastal road and the sea.

Two deep anti-tank ditches have been thrown across the highway there and the mountains to the west are heavily [illegible]

Eliminate Big Bank Notes in Great Britain

No Bills Over £5 To Be Circulated

LONDON, April 22 (CP). — Sir Kingsley Wood, Chancellor of the Exchequer, told the House of Commons today that the Government was withdrawing from circulation bank notes of the denomination of £10 and upwards.

Financial circles interpreted the move as an attempt to halt big cash transactions to avoid income tax and to hamper black market dealings.

Since no book records were kept of many big cash deals, it was reported that the Government had been unable to collect the full income tax. With only notes of small value in circulation, it was said, cash deals in tens of thousand pounds sterling would be difficult because of the bulk of the money involved.

The Government's decision leaves the £5 note the highest in circulation.

Saluting Not To Be Reduced

Churchill Refuses To Consider Change

LONDON, April 22 (CP). — Prime Minister Churchill refused today to cut down on the amount of saluting going on in Britain's large cities.

Capt. B. V. Kirby, Labor, asked that saluting be not required in London or other large cities because its frequency was embarrassing to officers and men.

Replying in the House of Commons, Mr. Churchill said "Saluting is an acknowledgement of the King's Commission and a courtesy to Allied officers, and I do not consider it desirable to differentiate between one city or town and another in this matter."

A week-long battle has been raging in Kuban for the Krymskaya railway junction, says The Times correspondent, and the outcome still hangs in the balance. Institute for Seafarers in Need of Funds

By F. M. KELLEY

At the corner of Superior and St. Lawrence Streets in this fair city is an unpretentious little structure, mostly covered with creeping greenery. Its exterior is inviting and, needless to state, the interior is in keeping with every outside promise of hospitality. It has been open since 1914, the cornerstone having been laid by the Duke of Connaught in September, 1912, two years previously. When it was opened it was dedicated to all men who do "business in great waters," and named Connaught Seamen's Institute.

Because there were always little groups of devoted workers, principally women by the way, who felt that the merchant seaman's spell ashore might be made a trifle more pleasant than otherwise through their efforts, Connaught Seamen's Institute continued to function more or less successfully. It was not always easy; for the funds to carry on had to be provided by the committee. As a unit of the British Sailors' Society it was in receipt of a small monthly allowance for some time; but since the present war started this bit of assistance has not been forthcoming, for obvious reasons.

HOUSE DOORS ALWAYS OPEN

Night or day, the doors of Connaught Seamen's Institute are always open; but it keeps the committee busy finding the ways and means to keep them so, in addition to being able to provide comforts for the men who help man merchant navy ships calling at the Port of Victoria—men who are worthy of every little attention that can be bestowed upon them in part return for the part they and their breed are playing in this war. But for the men of the merchant marine, as more than one authority has pointed out, the war could have been lost to Britain and her Allies long since.

Sailormen continue to drop in from time to time at Connaught Seamen's Institute while their ships are in port and pass their off-duty hours in pleasant surroundings. And when their ships are ready to proceed on the long ocean voyage to run the hazards of enemy action—surface craft, submarine, airplane and floating mine—their kit bags always contain reminders of their stay ashore here in the shape of woolen articles and such accessories as are appreciated by the seafarer. And he is entitled to this concern on the part of Canadians for what he has been through and what he must expect to go through every time his ship casts off—bound for some undisclosed port.

Appeals to the generosity of local citizens for aid in maintaining the institution, the holding of a tag day once a year for the purpose of soliciting contributions, or the donation of money set aside by sport organizations such as the local baseball association is promising this year, are all very well in their way as far as they go; but when there is an organization set up by the Federal Government to provide and sustain hostels for the benefit of sailormen ashore in the main seaports of Canada, it would seem that Connaught Seamen's Institute is entitled to a little consideration in a financial way. "God helps those who help themselves," there's no doubt, as the women's committee of Connaught Seamen's Institute know full well, but a little help from the East would allow it to make both ends meet without having to pinch its precious dollars.

Possibly this assistance has never been sought. If not, a request for assistance in carrying on to Arthur Randles, director of merchant seamen activities for Canada, might very properly be forwarded by the committee. It would be worth trying. Connaught Seamen's Institute has a good case, and its proper presentation might have the result desired.

New Assistant

Fred V. Stone, personnel manager, and Grant W. G. McConachie, general manager of the Western District, Canadian Pacific Air Lines, in jointly announcing at Edmonton, the appointment of J. S. Anderson, as assistant personnel manager, under Mr. Stone, are directing attention to the Canadian Pacific's plans for postwar rehabilitation of workers in the air industry who are now engaged in military or national defence assignments.

In Mr. Anderson the department has acquired a man widely experienced. Born in Kingston, Ont., he moved with his family to Walkerton, and later to Hamilton, where he attended McMaster University, being graduated as Bachelor of Arts.

An Interesting Group Aboard Canada's First Hospital Ship

The former Canadian National Railways luxury liner Lady Nelson is now equipped as Canada's first hospital ship. In charge of the new hospital ship are Lieut.-Col. A. H. Taylor, of Goderich, Ont., commanding officer; Capt. Charlotte Nixon, of Montreal, Que., matron, and Capt. G. W. Welch, of Halifax, N.S., ship captain. Some of the ship's staff are shown on deck, standing on a huge Red Cross, one of the many painted on the ship to identify it as a ship of mercy.

Says Army Planes Out Of Gasoline

U.S. Under Secretary Of War Is Critical

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—Under-Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson was quoted by aides today as charging that the emphasis on the synthetic rubber programme had crippled aviation gasoline production so badly as to threaten the all-out air assault on Europe.

Rubber Director William Jeffers countered with a sharp statement calling for an immediate investigation to bring out the "true facts," declaring Patterson's words "might contribute materially to the comfort of the enemy."

SAYS WAR MAY BE PROLONGED

Patterson declared, according to his office, that unless more equipment and machinery are immediately devoted to 100-octane gasoline plants, the war may be prolonged and possibly stalemated by the United States army's inability to deliver the scheduled smashing bomber blows on Germany and Nazi-occupied Europe this Summer in co-operation with the R.A.F.

Army planes were grounded last month for lack of gasoline, Patterson was quoted as saying, and the present month is worse instead of better. The under-secretary attributed this situation to the decision this year to grant an overriding priority directive to Jeffers' synthetic rubber programme, despite competing demands by the armed services for equipment and machines, for aviation gasoline and escort ships.

Devices Save Flying Time

Training Speeded Up By Ground Machines

OTTAWA, April 22 (CP)—Synthetic training devices are constantly being developed which shorten the amount of flying time required of aircrew in training and simplify training operations, Air Vice-Marshal L. D. Dalzell-McKean, head of the United Kingdom Air Liaison Mission in Canada, said today on his return from an overseas visit.

He went to the United Kingdom to bring himself up to date on overseas developments.

"All expressed great satisfaction with the quality of the output of the training scheme here," he said.

Synthetic training devices are thought up first by airmen on operational duty as a result of their experience.

The devices themselves are then built at the stations and later tested and possibly approved by the highest training authorities. They enable some kinds of instruction to be given on the ground which would otherwise have to be given in the air and so save on flying time. These devices are not available in Canada for some time after they have become available in the United Kingdom.

FINDS BRITISH PUBLIC OPTIMISTIC

The British public was in an optimistic frame of mind, no doubt reflecting the recent good news from North Africa. Food was adequate but certainly not luxurious.

"The fact that it is adequate is largely owing to the consignments from Canada," he said. "The general public are very much alive to that and realize how much they owe to the assistance received from Canada and the other Dominions."

The air vice-marshal said he had seen some of the latest photographs of bombed targets in enemy territory and was satisfied the Germans are getting back about 100 times of what they gave to London.

He added that the development of long-range fighters will add to the effectiveness of the bombing offensive by making daylight attacks on distant targets possible.

C.P.R. Worker Risks Life to Avert a Wreck

PORT ARTHUR, April 22 (CP)—Risking his life to cross thin ice on Jackfish Bay, J. Campbell, a Canadian Pacific Railway telegraph operator, was in time to stop a freight train and avert a possible wreck because of a broken rail, it was learned here today.

Campbell is the operator at Jackfish, an isolated village on the shore of Lake Superior, east of here.

The conductor of a passenger train reported the broken rail last Saturday. Campbell set out to notify a section crew but found the men were working in a tunnel some miles away.

The only way to reach the train in time for a warning was to make the dangerous crossing of the bay.

He reported the broken rail completely out, leaving a wide gap in the track.

Contracts Let To Coast Yards

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22 (AP)—Contracts for 357 merchant ships, including 189 Victory ships, a new design, have been awarded Pacific Coast shipyards, the United States Maritime Commission announced here yesterday.

The other ships to be constructed on the Coast include 131 high-speed tankers and thirty-seven Liberties. Contracts for 112 other ships were awarded to yards in other parts of the country.

The contracts are the first to be awarded for the new Victory design which will supplant the familiar Liberty ship as the principal emergency type. They are of approximately the same deadweight tonnage but will be larger and considerably faster. Turbine propulsion will be installed in many of them.

All of the new vessels will be completed by the end of 1944.

Ss. Norah Floated

The steamer Princess Norah, which ran aground on Little Zero Rock last Tuesday while on the way to James Island from Victoria, was refloated early yesterday morning and towed to graving dock for examination.

No estimate of the damage to the ship can be made until after the survey, but company officials said she would be out of service for several weeks.

PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching pain at rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from Modern Pharmacy or Cushman Bros. Drug Store, for any druggist, and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results your druggist will gladly return your money. (Advt.)

Strictly War Measure

EDMONTON, April 22 (CP)—R. C. Vaughan, president of the Canadian National Railways, said today if railway lines between Prince George, B.C., and Alaska, and an extension to the Alaska Highway from Whitecourt, Alta., were built, "it will be strictly a war measure."

"It's not up to me," Mr. Vaughan said, "to say much about that. I don't know what plans the Canadian and United States Governments have, but if the lines are built, it will be strictly a war measure."

Downing of German Ace Is Recalled

Quarter Century Since Richthofen Was Killed

OTTAWA, April 22 (CP)—This day twenty-five years ago Germany's greatest flying ace of the First Great War, Baron Manfred [illegible] behind the Allied lines in France by a Canadian airman, Captain Roy Brown.

The incident was recalled by Dewitt MacKenzie, Associated Press war commentator, who noted difference between the courtesies extended to enemy airmen in this war and the First Great War while discussing the execution of American airmen by the Japanese. Von Richthofen was buried by the British with full military honors although he personally and his famous "Flying Circus" squadron had been responsible for the deaths of many Allied airmen.

Capt. Brown, the man who brought the German ace down, is still alive and operates a farm at Stouffville, Ont. His two daughters, Margaret and Barbara, are serving in the women's division of the R.C.A.F.

TRYING TO DOWN CAPTAIN WOP MAY

EDMONTON, April 22 (CP)—When the German flying ace of the First Great War, Baron Manfred von Richthofen, was shot down by Captain Royal Brown twenty-five years ago today, he was trying to down an Edmonton airman, Captain W. R. (Wop) May.

As the story has been told many times, the German ace had May in his sights when Captain Brown shot him down.

Captain May, who became one of Canada's flying aces of the First Great War and later widely known as a "bush flyer" in the Canadian Northwest, is now superintendent of the Western division of Canadian Airways (Training) Limited, stationed here, helping train air observers for the present struggle.

Reminded today of that day twenty-five years ago when Captain Brown saved him from Richthofen's guns, Captain May's only comment was:

"Twenty-five years ago? Gosh, it doesn't seem that long."

Ripple Rock Work Starts

A notice to mariners from the Department of Transport advises that it is expected that the drill barge to be used in connection with the removal of Ripple Rock in Seymour Narrows will be at the site on April 27.

The notice says:

"Mariners are advised that it is expected the drill barge to be used in connection with the removal of Ripple Rock, Seymour Narrows, B.C., will be at the site April 27, 1943.

"From approximately 5 a.m., April 27, for a few hours, operations may require all traffic to be stopped.

"When drilling on the rock actually starts the barge will be moored in position with six wire cables leading to anchors, but at any time the barge may be warped from its position at Ripple Rock to a position at the entrance to Canoe Pass.

"It is strongly recommended that while operations are proceeding all traffic be discontinued northbound through Seymour Narrows during an ebbing tide or foggy weather.

"The drill barge is 150 feet long by forty-foot beam. The hull is painted green and the deckhouse grey. During the night two vertical red lights will be displayed and in daytime two vertical black balls. During foggy weather a bell on the scow will be sounded at frequent intervals. Also, in the event of special circumstances a steam whistle will be blown giving five or more short blasts.

"In the event of exceptional circumstances occurring at Seymour Narrows the information will be broadcast by radio and radiophone.

"It is expected that the complete operation at Seymour Narrows will continue for at least eight months.

"W. L. STAMFORD, Agent,
"Department of Transport,
Victoria, B.C., April 21, 1943."

No Women Wanted

LONDON, Ont., April 22 (CP)—Two St. Thomas, Ont., women applying for work as motormen, brakemen or conductors on the London & Port Stanley Railway Line, had their hopes dashed to the ground.

Ruled a railway official: "We're not going to hire them. Although labor is scarce, we don't think the situation has reached the point where we have to put women in charge of trains."

CRANBROOK, April 22 (CP)—Seven Avro-Anson training planes on an East-West ferry trip encountered weather conditions which made landing necessary about sixty miles east of here yesterday and landed at Kitchener and Yahk. One aircraft was quite seriously damaged but neither its occupants nor those in the other planes were injured.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY

One may search the bibliographies of the world and not find very much about St. George, the patron saint of England, whose day this is. There is a record of a venerated man whose martyrdom at Lydda (now Ludd), Palestine, was recorded in early Syrian writings. There is a reference to a dragon, which, in the mysterious way that dragons have, traced its own genealogy from that monster which once threatened Andromeda, now a bright constellation in the sky. There is a clearer record whereby Saint George was declared the patron saint of England by Edward III, and from that day forward the association has grown and prospered, until today it is an understood thing that Saint George is for Merrie England, and England a doughty dragon-slayer in a ravening world. Nor will history today quarrel with that. On the contrary, history will bring chapter and verse to prove that it is so, even today.

On the anniversary of England's patron saint, then, it is pleasant to regard that tight little kingdom which so often through the centuries has slain real and undisputed dragons in this world. Never, perhaps, was the record brighter than it is today. When, breathing fire and brimstone, the dragon in 1939 marched into Poland, there was an England ready to say no, and to back that up with her sword. When France fell in 1940, when the Low Countries were overrun by the aced of the dragon, and when much of the world was ready to say that that was the end of all freedom, there was again an England ready to say no. That was an England that stood to her guns and on her beaches; rallied her old and her young, her hale and her crippled; and sent around this world such a challenge that history can nowhere show its like.

Then the dragon's hot breath was turned against England, and her sister countries in the tight little isle. Men watched on rooftops in the streets of London. The men of Dover, of Plymouth, of Portsmouth and of Southhampton stood by. Striplings, hardly out of their 'teens, took to the sky, to carve there a name for themselves that 1,000 years of living history will not forget. Grandmothers picked up incendiary bombs, clucking at Hitler. Girls drove buses through shrapnel and bomb-splinters. Men, women and children worked amid debris and carnage such as the world has not seen before. Still it was "Saint George for Merrie England," and Saint George was riding hard against the dragon. Mortals in those few months rose to the heights, not of saints, but of gods. A Churchill stood as the centre of the world's resistance; declaring that England would fight on its beaches, in the streets, on the hilltops, afar in its Dominions and colonies, but that never would she give in. That was bravely said, and bravely done.

The world has come some little distance around its pointed circle since then. The spirit of Saint George has infected a whole world. Everywhere that freedom is valued men fight the self-same dragon with fire and with sword. Now it is the dragon which languishes—no longer sure of even a defenceless Andromeda, chained to the rocks of Europe. A crusade greater than any man has known before is riding, and at its van, with a red cross on a white pennant, are carried again the colors of Saint George. Long years from now, when the dragon has been caged and rendered impotent, men will say of the tight little isle, and of its English heart, that this was in sober truth its very finest hour. Long live Saint George of the valiant heart, and may he ever have such stout-hearted standard bearers! The world has need of them!

TWELVE MILLION TONS LOST

The complete reply, the unanswerable one, to those who have been advocating for so long that a second land front should be opened in Europe is forthcoming in the devastation wrought by the U-boat campaign and by aerial attack on the merchant tonnage of the United Nations. It has been disclosed before a Senate Committee in the United States that approximately 12,000,000 tons of this shipping was sunk during 1942, more than it was possible to construct in British and American shipbuilding yards. A finding of this committee is that "it is no military secret that the United States now has not enough shipping to supply the Allies with the weapons and food which they require and to transport and maintain overseas as many soldiers and as much material as is available." In view of this condition which must be taken as authentic there will be obvious realization that the dangers of a "Second Front" cannot be faced until sufficient tonnage and arms are in possession of the United Nations and at the right spot.

The question of a "Second Front" has always hinged on the availability of sufficient tonnage. What a vital factor that is becomes apparent in the great number of merchant ships found necessary to land troops and to keep them supplied in the North African theatre of war. The United Nations have fewer than 500,000 troops engaged in this campaign. The estimate is that some 10,000,000 tons of shipping has been employed for the purposes of this front. As well, the policy has been followed of providing a continuous stream of supplies to Russia, to say nothing of the Atlantic traffic to carry troops, foodstuffs and munitions of war to the British Isles. Then, too, there is the preoccupation in the Pacific Ocean. Australia complains that insufficient troops have been sent to that area to meet the Japanese menace. Most certainly there are not enough to engage in any offensive on a grand scale.

The disclosures made by a Senate Committee in the United States draw attention to the seriousness that has developed in the submarine menace. They explain the delay there has been in the opening of a "Second Front." They are a challenge to the United Nations to speed up their shipbuilding production, and one recommendation made is that faster ships with greater cargo-carrying capacity should be constructed. That, too, is a matter that has been engaging the attention of the British authorities, for it is common knowledge that the faster vessels are the better their chance is of escaping destruction by torpedo. A most vital trend in the war as it proceeds is the necessity of outstripping the submarine menace. This problem has been emphasized within recent weeks both by Mr. Churchill and authorities in the United States. Now that the peoples of the United Nations know that in 1942 some 12,000,000 tons of their merchant shipping was destroyed should be a sufficient inducement to them to increase their efforts in providing that tonnage which is an absolute essential for the opening of a "Second Front."

THE AXIS WAR

Newspapers, public men and radio broadcasters throughout the United Nations are getting into the habit of calling the present struggle the World War, or World War No. 2. While neither appellation can be called a misnomer there is the thought that a name for the present hostilities should be adopted that will serve in the centuries to come to fix the blame. For this purpose perhaps no name would be more appropriate than "The Axis War." Currently and historically that title would throw the onus on the Axis Powers for having precipitated the struggle. Even now there is strong propaganda afoot, in Germany more particularly, to place the war guilt on the United Nations. This purpose will be intensified as hostilities reach their concluding stages; it will, as after the Great War, grow into a crescendo of blame when the terms of peace are being decided.

The two great elements of thought that divide the world today will maintain to a degree when peace comes. If this war is to be called the World War there is no doubt that in a good many minds the guilt will, in varying shades, belong to all the nations participating. That the term should be accepted for historical record may well confuse the minds of future generations who will see in the title the most widespread possible blame. On the other hand, "The Axis War" is a title that will leave no misunderstanding in an historical sense as to who precipitated the contest. The Napoleonic Wars were such and the question has never been raised in any world-wide sense as to who was to blame. In a so-called "World War" the issue of guilt may well remain indecisive, for the peoples of Germany, Italy and Japan, to say nothing of the Balkan States, throughout generations to come will have it instilled into them that they were the victims of a mightier combination of Powers which sought their destruction. Then again, the title "World War" is misleading to the extent that all the nations are not participants. On the other hand, if history would accept the title of "The Axis War" there would be steadily growing realization that the term fixes the guilt. The suggestion is well worthy of the consideration of the leaders of the United Nations. There is a confusion of thought now as to what the present struggle should be named.

WORK, NOT DOLES

Most schemes of social security that are being devised and discussed for the benefit of future generations have to do with the dole. It is being taken for granted, in the light of experiences of the past, that social security, to some extent at least, must rest on this system, and ways and means are being sought whereby the burden will be distributed in a more co-operative way, and as far as possible without increased taxation. In the process, however, there is the reminder that those for whom such benefits are being planned would far sooner have their security based on work, on the security of the tenure of employment than in any sense being dependent on contributions from the public purse to enable them to have at all times the means of livelihood. It may be admitted that this is only possible to a degree, because, owing to both national and world circumstances, there are recurring periods of unemployment and that one of these may well arise from the very conditions implied in the present titanic struggle. That is to be safeguarded against. If it must be done, in a measure, by doles, well and good, but statesmanship should be able to evolve ways by which that system is reduced to its irreducible minimum.

It is heartening to hear from Mr. John Bracken, leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, that his political plans are founded on the desire for the provision of work, not doles. It may be beyond his power, even if given office, as it may be beyond the power of anyone else, to see to it that in the postwar world "every man should be assured a job, at fair wages for a fair day's work." That, however, is the goal towards which leaders of thought in any nation should aim. Mr. Bracken, too, is on the right tack in his belief in private enterprise, in its encouragement, and, only wherein it fails, resorting to governmental assistance to meet the needs of unemployment. All those who wish to retain their self-respect, and who realize what their responsibilities are as citizens, will endorse such a conception of a postwar world, that is if it is to be a self-reliant world. If Mr. Bracken could bring his aims to fruition in Canada he would deserve well of this country.

WRITTEN IN EARLY SPRING

I heard a thousand blended notes
While in a grove I sate reclined
In that sweet mood when pleasant thoughts
Bring sad thoughts to the mind.

To her fair works did Nature link
The human soul that through me ran
And much it grieved my heart to think
What Man has made of Man.

Through primrose tufts, in that sweet bower,
The periwinkle trail'd its wreaths;
And 'tis my faith that every flower
Enjoys the air it breathes.

The birds around me hopp'd and play'd,
Their thoughts I cannot measure,—
But the least motion which they made
It seem'd a thrill of pleasure.

The budding twigs spread out their fan
To catch the breezy air;—
And I must think, do all I can,
That there was pleasure there.

If this belief from heaven be sent,
If such be Nature's holy plan,
Have I not reason to lament
What Man has made of Man?

—William Wordsworth.

Music is the mediator between the spiritual and the sensual life. Although the spirit be not master of that which it creates through music, yet it is blessed in this creation, which, like every creation of art, is mightier than the artist.—Beethoven.

Next to the very young, I suppose the very old are the most selfish. Alas! the heart hardens as the blood ceases to run.—Thackeray.

Note and Comment

By SANDHAM GRAVES

"William Collie,
"Somewhere-in-Saanich.

"Dear Bill,—If you ask me, it is funny business. Here am I shut in the yard, a virtual prisoner! The folks say: 'No, you cannot go out. The poundman will get you.' I think there is something behind this. I know the poundman. He likes dogs! It can't be him, Bill. My old man admitted as much. He said: 'Paddy, it's no go. You can't go out. This is the silly season!' No word of the poundman there, Bill.

"At that, I think it must be the silly season. I saw Angus McSnort being dragged down the street on a nine-foot leather leash. 'What have you done?' I asked him. 'Losh, pup, it's no what I hae done or nae done. It's the by-law.' What do you make of that, Bill? Then again, pup, I saw McSnort's grandpups. All nine of them were on leashes, and were they in a mess! Wee Spavins McSnort was choking. They had to cut his collar off to save him!

"I must say, Bill, that staying at home is not bad. The sun is very pleasant, when you can get out of the wind. Yesterday, for instance, we planted cabbages. That is, my old man planted the cabbages, and I brought him a stone as a good luck piece to put in with them. But he wouldn't do it. I don't see why. I bet you a stone would grow just as well as a cabbage. I've planted many of them, but the trouble is, Bill, I forget where I put them. I'll wait a day or two, and then slip them in beside the cabbages. I could find them easily there.

"Coming back to the silly season, pup, how is it with you? Are you kept in? Do you have to wear a nine-foot leather cable on your neck when you go out? Does anyone threaten you with the poundman, or the by-law? And what for cat's sake, is a by-law? Or was McSnort merely pulling my leg? It didn't seem so. He looked good and angry to me. His eyebrows twitched, and his tail was down. And Spavins McSnort was really choking. He couldn't fake that! His tongue was out, and his brown eyes were rolling. He was in a very bad way, I tell you.

"At any rate write, Bill. It is a mite lonely here in the garden with nothing much to do. I miss the beach and the hilltop. I can't get at a rib-bone that I buried just under the chestnut tree, next but one to—but there, that would be telling. By the way, have you found any little thing up at the barn? I don't mean to hint, Bill, but there are times when I feel as if I could go for a genuine sheep-shanker, and in a large way.

"Well, that's all for now, pup. Do write to let me know about the silly season—and the barn, you know.

"Yours to a tail-wag,
"PADDY WIREHAIR.

"P.S.—There goes Terence O'Duffy down the street like as if he owned it, and not a sign of either a licence or a leash on him! How does he do it, I ask you?—J.P.W."

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is reckoned from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve in distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

To find the depth of water on the sill at the Esquimalt Drydock at any tide, add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

Ludendorff Sees Losses Too Great—The enormous losses inflicted on the enemy by the British have caused General Ludendorff to change his tactics and he has ordered that no more massed attacks be made by the Germans. The correspondent of The Daily Mail at British headquarters in France reports that General Ludendorff in an order dated March 30, said: "The idea of forcing success by the employment of masses must be abolished absolutely. It only leads to unnecessary losses. The effective use of weapons, not of numbers, gives the decision." The German method of advance since the order, says the correspondent, has been to push forward small bodies of troops with light machine guns.

On the Record—

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

FREEDOM FOR DISCRETION

It is announced that the press will be excluded from the conference, in Hot Springs, Virginia, which will deal with food problems of the United Nations.

The press is naturally disappointed. Newspaper men argue that the exclusion is unique in the history of international conferences, that it will only give rise to speculation in the place of fact, and that the American press can be trusted to observe disciplines in matters involving the war.

The argument for exclusion is that there are bound to be differences of opinion which, if aired during the conference, may tend to influence it, deepening divergencies, that such conferences need to be held without public pressures, that the results will be made known to the public, and that that is all the news safe to print.

Now, although I hope that the policy will be changed, and reporters admitted to the conference territory, still, I think, there are some words to be said upon the function of the press in wartime.

It is true that the press, as a whole, has imposed self-discipline upon itself. Few secrets, likely to give aid to the enemy, have been exposed in the press even though the press had knowledge of them, and though by any normal standard, they were big news.

But the temporary withholding of facts is not adequate discipline in time of war. This is a negative discipline, and the press also needs positive disciplines.

KNOCKER IN NEWS

The other day, passing through Chicago between trains, I picked up a morning paper. The only war news on the front page was an account of the sinking of four American ships at Guadalcanal. Discouraging news. Encouraging news—from Tunisia—was buried in the middle of the paper. The front page was given over to accounts of food shortages, and civilian inconveniences. The editorial page was full of bitter criticism of the Administration. Doubts were raised about Russia. The net effect was the impression that we were waging a dubious war with great civilian suffering, that the Administration and not the war, was responsible for our inconveniences, and, in fact, that our real enemies were in Washington and Moscow.

In the last few days General MacArthur has issued warnings that the Japanese are preparing a full-fledged invasion of Australia, and that he is hopelessly outnumbered. This came out in the form of interviews and seemed a public appeal for help. Meantime the help has been promised by the Secretary of War.

In this case the press cannot be criticized. But I cannot think of a parallel case in which a general has taken a case to public opinion instead of taking it to his general staff. In Britain as well as America, there has been an impression that General MacArthur is opposing the basic strategy of the war.

That is his good right; but the way to do it is to his superiors and not to the public. A war cannot be run by Gallup polls, and criticisms given to the American public are also given to the enemy. General MacArthur's statement is dynamite in the hands of German and Japanese propagandists.

POSTWAR WORDAGE

The press is full of revelations of what our State Department intends to do after the war. Mr. Kingsbury-Smith, in The American Mercury, lays down our Government's plans for postwar Germany. Mr. Edgar Mower, in The New York Post, announces that our Government plans the dismemberment of the French Empire after the war. In both cases the intentions are no doubt good, but the effect is terrible.

Both correspondents claim to reveal Government policy. I have no doubt that they have evidence that such ideas are discussed in certain Government circles. But Government policy can only be revealed by the Government, and not by persons on the periphery who think they know what it is.

I am strongly in favor of discussing postwar plans. I am very much against the suspension of public debate in wartime. But correspondents have not, I think, the right to commit the Government to a policy which the Government itself has not announced as a policy. Incidentally, I do not think these revelations express the policy of the State Department. I believe it has not yet crystallized.

But I do know that such revelations are used by the Axis to influence the people of Europe adversely in a moment when invasion may be imminent.

In time of war it is not enough to ask oneself even the question, is this the truth? One must ask oneself two further questions. Is any purpose to be served by publishing this at this moment? Or, second, exactly how can I reveal it, so as to do good, rather than harm?

Dr. Goebbels' agents are avid readers of American newspapers. Every person who writes in them must realize that he is being read by the enemy, conning his lines for war material—bullets, to be used against us.

Shoe industry chemists are endeavoring to perfect some practicable and non-rationable leather substitute before more drastic restrictions are imposed on the manufacture of footwear. Wooden shoes tried in England were found to be too noisy, chipped easily, and their rocker soles did not make up for lack of flexibility. Articles now being tried for shoe soles include factory machine belting, rope, plastics, and a by-product of resin impregnated with cotton threads.

From Judge: "We have thought up the four freedoms, but the mechanism to make them work is still conspicuous by its absence. Remember a great man once said 'Thou shalt not steal,' but it takes millions of men armed to the teeth and in special uniforms, twenty-four hours per day to try to enforce this wonderful idea. That is the way we will have to do with the peace".... The Beveridge plan in England would provide a lump sum up to $40 on marriage; up to $16 on becoming a mother; and $7.20 per week for three months to women who had paid jobs; $1.60 per week for every child, except the first, under sixteen years of age; up to $80 for burial; free medical, dental and hospital treatment; pensions for widows and separated wives; up to $4.80 per week for single men retiring at sixty-five years of age, and $8 per week for a retired man and his wife.... Bill, the Broad Street barber, invited two friends home for supper last week and insisted on doing the cooking. After much effort amid sounds of banging pots and pans in the kitchen, he brought out a steaming dish that he explained was hash. The guests thought it tasted appetizing, and one of them asked for the recipe, more out of politeness than anything else. There is no recipe for my hash," Bill explained. "The stuff simply accumulates."

Visitor Feels Like An Honored Guest

(By an Airman From Montreal)

I must say I entered your fair city with a chip on my shoulder and a skeptical air about me, as I had succumbed to gossip, though not completely. I had fully intended to find out for myself and find out for myself I did. Now I am an ardent Victorian, if you can bear having a Montrealer term himself as such.

I entered Victoria via the Island Highway and was immediately perked up and refreshed by the sight that greeted me. The homes and gardens of citizens out that way deserve a great deal of praise, as nowhere have I experienced such a delightful entry into any city. I have entered many in my time, too, and had come to the conclusion that tourists are always brought along the worst routes posible to get to the heart of a city. Victoria's entrance shattered that supposition.

Reservations had been made well in advance at the Empress Hotel, and by the time I approached the desk there I was feeling quite alone and was on guard for the much forewarned stiffness I was to receive from all citizens of Victoria. I almost burst into tears of joy from the warmness in the desk clerk's smile and the cordiality with which I was greeted.

AN APPEALING QUIETUDE

From that time onward my six days' leave was just a round of social events and the usual sightseeing horrors we all go through when viewing a strange city. Mornings were spent in the beautiful gardens of the hotel. The shouts of the children, swimming across the road in the Crystal Garden pool, was the only sound which interrupted the quietness and the peacefulness of the morning, and as I sat back in my deck chair basking in the sun I wondered how it were ever possible for a war to be raging, such was the city's beauty and serenity. Sunday morning in the gardens is something I should never want to forget. It was a beautiful morning and the bells from the cathedral and other nearby churches were chiming forth bidding all worshippers come. Through the walks of the gardens hurried and scurried many a late church-goer, and then at 11 o'clock all was quiet again.

One morning I visited the Crystal Garden, and it was so long since I had seen children that I was given a much needed boost just by sitting there and watching them at play. All were so healthy and sturdy, all so happy and secure, and I thought for a moment how wonderful it was to have our younger generation that way with war on all sides. I resolved then and there that I, as an airman, would do all in my power to keep it that way.

Of course I rented a bicycle and toured Beacon Hill Park, stopping to talk to the ever favorite Polly. Some naval men were trying to have Polly add some choice words to her vocabulary, but Polly wouldn't have it and stuck to the conservative, "Polly want a cracker," which has made that species of bird famous the world over.

TIME PASSES QUICKLY

According to the propagandists I was to find the nights unbearable in your city—nothing to do. I never thought it possible for six nights to pass by in such quick succession. Joseph Hoffman was at the top of my "must see" list and I only managed to squeeze in two shows. I visited the Roller Skating Arena and found everyone so friendly. I wasn't there half an hour when I was approached by a gentleman and two young ladies asking me to join them. It wasn't long until I discovered they were guests at the Empress Hotel, too. That night dancing was in vogue first at the Crystal Garden, which became quite warm and crowded after awhile; then over we went to hear Billy Tickle at our abode.

Such was what one young airman did whilst your guest. I say "guest" because that is just the way all I came into contact with made me feel. To my fellow airmen I say don't listen to all the subversive talk you will undoubtedly hear about Victoria when you first come to the West Coast. Visit the city yourself, and although you are many thousands of miles from home I for one will guarantee that Victoria will be your A1 choice as the friendly city in which to spend your all too seldom leaves.

Soong at Ottawa

OTTAWA, April 22 (CP).—Dr. T. V. Soong, Chinese Minister of Foreign Affairs, arrived in Ottawa today for conferences with Prime Minister Mackenzie King and other Government officials here.

According to Culbertson - - -

No matter how much is written on the subject, thousands of players refuse to open the bidding on minimum values. Although this philosophy is to be deplored, it is not nearly so costly as the absurdly weak action these players are apt to take after the bidding has been opened by someone else. Consider North's feeble efforts in the following deal.

West dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ K 7
♥ K Q 10 8 6 3
♦ K 8 5 4
♣ 7

WEST
♠ Q J 10
♥ J 7 2
♦ J 6
♣ Q J 10 6 2

EAST
♠ 8 6 3
♥ 9 8 4
♦ A Q
♣ A 9 8 5 4

SOUTH
♠ A 9 6 5 2
♥ A
♣ K 3

West, the dealer, passed and North promptly followed his example. North was obviously a player who had been brought up to regard two and one-half honor tricks as sacred minimum requirements, and he was not to be seduced by an excellent six card major suit and a holding of two plus honor tricks, counting the singleton club as a plus value. East, not being so timid, opened with one club and South overcalled with one spade. West, the reverse of timid, raised to two clubs and this time North summoned the courage to enter the auction. His choice of bids, however, left much to be desired. He bid two hearts.

A glance at the South hand will disclose that the two heart call created a knotty problem. South's spade suit was pretty weak, which made a rebid in that department dangerous, two no trump was unthinkable with this distribution and with only one club stopper, and three diamonds would apparently be just a shot in the dark. Everything considered, South's actual decision to pass can scarcely be criticized. It was, however, an unfortunate decision, inasmuch as a laydown game in hearts was missed.

The key to the correct bidding and correct contract in this case was, of course, North's selection on the second round. After his original pass, the very least North should have done was jump to three hearts over West's two clubs. Surely his holding warranted that much consideration! This bid would have had quite a different effect on South from the actual two heart bid, and whether he answered it with three spades, four diamonds, or four hearts, North-South would have no difficulty in reaching the correct four heart contract.

Oaklands Hall to Mark Its Thirtieth Anniversary Here

Oaklands Gospel Hall, corner of Cedar Hill Road and Hillside Avenue, will hold special Thanksgiving services on Saturday and Sunday in celebrating its thirtieth anniversary.

The special meetings will be as follows: Saturday, at 8 p.m., when a Thanksgiving service will be conducted and a brief history of the assembly will be given. Sunday, at 11 a.m., breaking of bread and worship, and at 3 p.m., a praise and Thanksgiving service with addresses by F. G. Hamilton and Henry L. Hopkins. The song service will be held at 7:15 p.m., with the Gospel meeting at 7:30, when the speaker will be John Thomson.

Under the oak trees in the Hillside district, back in the Summer of 1911, Mr. and Mrs. W. Galloway gathered the children together on Sunday afternoon to teach them hymns and Bible stories. Numbers attending the services increased rapidly and suitable indoor accommodation was necessary. This was provided when the new stores were built in 1912 at the corner of Hillside Avenue and Cedar Hill Road.

The Sunday school met here and a Gospel meeting started for Sunday evenings. When the store was rented for business purposes, the owner made a convenient hall upstairs, over the stores. Here an assembly was started, and on Easter Sunday, April 27, 1913, the first celebration of the Lord's Supper was held—and thus the assembly known as "Christian Brethren" was established in Oaklands district.

Twenty-eight members formed the nucleus and today—thirty years later—the membership is approximately 150, with a Sunday school of nearly 200 children. Several of the original members are still attending and taking an active part in the work and almost the entire staff of Sunday school teachers has grown up with the school.

In 1914 the present hall was built—to accommodate 300 in the main hall and the lower hall divided into classrooms by means of moveable partitions for Sunday school classes.

Spirit greetings and clairvoyant messages will be given at the morning service.

On Easter Sunday at 7:30 p.m. Rev. Walter Holder will give a trance address, the subject being "He Is Risen." There will be clairvoyance at the close of the service by Rev. B. Benny, of Vancouver.

To Start Oil Drilling Soon

Equipment Moved to Vermilion by C.N.R.

EDMONTON, April 22 (CP).—Drilling by the Canadian National Railways in the Vermilion oil fields 130 miles east of here, will start as soon as weather conditions are suitable, R. C. Vaughan, president of the C.N.R., said in an interview today.

Mr. Vaughan said equipment had been moved to the fields and added a cleaning plant, to prepare oil for locomotive use, would be erected at the drilling sites.

The amount of money to be spent in the drilling projects "depends on what we strike," he said.

Referring to the movement of wheat and coarse grains from Canada to the United States and the storage of Canadian wheat Mr. Vaughan said he did not anticipate any serious difficulty.

The United States, he said, will loan a certain number of cars for the grain movement from Canada to the United States and added that new box cars on order should be delivered shortly.

While the first consideration of both railways was handling troops and war materials Mr. Vaughan said the C.N.R. had done a good job in moving traffic which had more than doubled since 1939.

Destroy Half Axis Shipping

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP).—The spectacular successes of Allied airmen in North Africa are destroying at least 50 per cent of Axis shipping—both air and sea, Robert P. Patterson, Under-Secretary of War, reported today.

Reviewing the progress of the war at a press conference, Patterson said reports from Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, Allied commander in North Africa, indicate that the number of ships sunk by Allied air forces and naval units has dislocated the Axis supply system seriously and that the enemy is trying to make up the loss by concentration of transport airplanes.

"At least 50 per cent of Axis shipping—both air and water—is being destroyed by our air attacks," Patterson said.

In the Tunisian ground fighting satisfactory progress has been made, he said, although the recently-launched heavy attacks on Axis positions are in the early stages.

Retired Naval P.O. Dies in Nanaimo

NANAIMO, April 22 — James Harry Temple, retired petty officer in the Royal and Canadian Navies, died in Nanaimo Hospital today following a brief illness. He formerly lived at 444 Constance Avenue, Esquimalt. He came to Nanaimo two years ago to assume the management of the Eagle Hotel here, which position he held at the time of his sudden fatal illness.

He was born in Nottingham, England, and received many decorations that identified ships he was on with important naval engagements in the last Great War. He was presented with a King George Coronation Medal for navy service, a Commemoration Medal for service during the earthquake in South Italy in 1908, Russian Medal of Stanislaus in 1916, and British War Victory Medal in 1921. He was formerly a well-known fullback on Navy football teams.

VANCOUVER, April 22 (CP).—Two of Vancouver's largest department stores (Woodward Stores, Ltd., and David Spencer, Ltd.) have been granted authority by the War Labor Board to close all day Wednesday instead of taking the customary half-holiday, they announced today. About 2,200 employees are affected.

Celebrating 93rd Birthday Tomorrow

MRS. MARTHA PATTON

WHO will celebrate her ninety-third birthday tomorrow at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. Mutrie, 1344 Minto Street. A slight illness last January has kept Mrs. Patton confined to her home, but Mrs. Mutrie said in referring to her mother: "She is wonderful! Her brain is so clear and active, and she is so interested in all the activities of her friends, and also in world affairs."

Mrs. Patton was born near Toronto on April 24, 1850, and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lamoureaux. After her marriage, she and her husband went to The Dalles, Oregon, where they lived for a short time before going to Vancouver in 1886, and after the big fire, which partially destroyed the town, they moved to Victoria, where Mrs. Patton has lived ever since. She has two daughters, Mrs. Mutrie and Mrs. Melissa Sears; two sons, Mr. Fred W. Patton, 50 Howe Street, and Mr. Arthur J. Patton, 1154 Old Esquimalt Road, and seven grandchildren.

Blitz Babies to Receive Toys

A preview of toys made by the working members of the British Columbia Toys for Blitz Babies' Club was held at the home of the founder, Mrs. Charles Flight, 3890 Blenkinsop Road, on Wednesday. The toys included 120 dolls and 150 animals all made from cotton remnants and will be on display in David Spencer's window for three days, April 29, 30 and May 1. A miniature circus will be the central theme, many of the main items having been planned and made by Miss Dorothy Lowe. Other energetic workers include Mrs. David Morrison, who has stuffed over 150 dolls; Mrs. Thompson, of Sooke, and Miss Allwork.

The idea of the public display is to interest other women who are clever with a needle to join the club. Mrs. Flight and members of the group will explain the plan for affiliation with other societies for the purpose of sharing patterns and cost of postage. All toys, ditty bags and other comforts are shipped overseas to the little bombed victims in hospitals throughout Britain.

Persons interested may telephone Mrs. Flight, E 4367; or write to the secretary, Mrs. F. Sharples, R.R. 3, Victoria. Mrs. Flight may also be contacted at the Sinclair Candy Store, 741 View Street.

Weddings

RIDLAND—CLARKE

Assorted Spring flowers made an attractive background for the wedding of Kathleen, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Clarke, 204 Oswego Street, and Mr. Arthur James Ridland, only son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ridland, 2749 Gosworth Road, which was solemnized by Rev. Canon Bird in the Church of Our Lord, on Thursday evening, assisted by Rev. G. Bruce Ridland, New Westminster, uncle of the groom. The organist was in attendance, and the vocal soloist was Miss Elsie Fryatt, who sang "God Gave Me You." Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a two-piece frock of Wedgewood blue silk worn with beige accessories. She carried a bouquet of bridal roses and blue iris. Mrs. Tex Ricardo, sister of the groom, was matron of honor, in a becoming suit of seafoam green silk with black accessories and a corsage bouquet of Talisman roses, and Mr. Ricardo was groomsman. Acting as ushers were Mr. Alec Johnston and Mr. Thomas Williamson.

The reception was held in Terry's Rose Room, where daffodils and white narcissi predominated in the floral decorations. Bowls of flowers and lighted tapers adorned the supper table, and after the toast had been given by Rev. Canon Bird the bride cut the cake. For a honeymoon on the Mainland the bride left in a red and white floral dress with a muskrat coat, beige accessories and a corsage bouquet of gardenias. Mr. and Mrs. Ridland will make their home at 2028 Stanley Avenue.

BISSENDEN—HOFFMAN

Coinciding with the sixty-eighth wedding anniversary of her grandmother, Mrs. L. E. Turpin, 217 Cook Street, the marriage was celebrated on Thursday evening between Mabel Kathleen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman, Borden, Sask., and P.O. Edward George Bissenden, R.C.N.V.R., eldest son of Mrs. Bissenden, and the late Mr. George Bissenden, 3346 Doncaster Drive, which took place in the vestry of Metropolitan United Church, Rev. A. E. Whitehouse, D.D., officiating. Mr. Thomas MacDonald gave the bride away, and she wore a becoming China tile fine wool suit with a pink sheer blouse, black and white accessories and a corsage bouquet of Talisman roses and white heather. Miss Margaret Bird, the bridesmaid, was dressed in teal blue with a matching hat and a corsage spray of pink carnations, and Gnr. Malcolm Bissenden, R.C.A., supported his brother. A small reception was held in the Royal Bank Hall, where Mrs. Turpin was assisted by the bridegroom's parents in welcoming the guests. Four vases of white carnations adorned the supper table which was centred with the bride's cake surmounted by a vase of Sweetheart rosebuds. Mr. Jack Townsend gave the toast to the bride. Following a honeymoon on the Mainland, P.O. and Mrs. Bissenden will make their home in the Ascot Apartments, Pandora Avenue.

TUCK—GIRDWOOD

At a pretty wedding, solemnized this week by Very Rev. Dean S. H. Elliott in Christ Church Cathedral, the principals were Winnifred Dorothy, third daughter of Mrs. Harold Girdwood, and the late Mr. E. P. Girdwood, 243 Kingston Street, and Mr. Douglas Stuart Tuck, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Tuck, 1490 Balfour Avenue, Vancouver. The lovely bride was given away by her uncle, Captain J. B. Girdwood, and wore a suit of pink Shetland wool with an orchid hat and veil, anakeskin accessories and a corsage bouquet of orchids. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. W. J. Ham, in a grey tailored suit with a corsage bouquet of gardenias and accessories en suite, and Mr. W. B. McFadden was groomsman. The reception for relatives and a few intimate friends was held at the home of the bride's mother, where Spring flowers were attractively arranged. A Chinese embroidered cloth covered the supper table which was centred with a crystal bowl of flowers, and at one end the bride cut the cake. Mr. and Mrs. Tuck left by plane for Vancouver, and after a honeymoon on the Mainland will return to Victoria to reside.

JEPHSON—FLEMING

A former Calgary boy who went to school in British Columbia before leaving for England with his family, Lieut. Maurice Christian Mounteney Jephson, R.N., son of Capt. and Mrs. J. M. Fleming, Mayfield Gardens, Edinburgh. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a sweeping gown of white figured satin with a long tulle veil caught with orange blossoms, a string of pearls, and she carried white orchids. The bridesmaid, Miss Irene Graham Rankin, wore a cherry red gown with headdress and veil to match, and carried red carnations. The groomsman was Lieut. Payne-Fry. The rector, Rev. S. Harvie-Clark officiated at the ceremony, during which hymns were sung by the choir. A reception was held at the Charlotte Rooms, Princes Street, where a number of relatives and friends gathered to offer their good wishes. The bride and groom spent their honeymoon in London.

Lassell and the late Mr. Lassell, Wetaskiwin, and Sgt. Michael D. A. Darling, R.C.A.F., only son of Captain and Mrs. M. A. Darling, Victoria. The officiating ministers were Rev. A. R. Schrag and Flt. Lt. P. G. McLennan. Mr. C. E. Tupper gave his niece in marriage, and she was gowned in white satin, embroidered with lilies of the valley and orchids. Her veil flowed from a coronet of white roses and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and lily of the valley. Miss Lila Thomason was bridesmaid in a frock of pale daffodil chiffon with a matching chapel veil and silver slippers, and carried a Colonial posy of pink roses and sweet peas, and little Marilyn Tupper was her cousin's flower girl in a floor-length frock of pink taffeta trimmed with baby blue bows, and carried a posy of roses and forget-me-nots. Arion Club Fifty Years Old in May

The Arion Club, the oldest male voice choir in Canada, and by far the oldest musical organization in Victoria, is this year celebrating its fiftieth anniversary and will mark the occasion by giving a concert at the Royal Victoria Theatre on May 17, exactly fifty years after the first concert by the club on May 17, 1893. Thus, the Arion Club is half as old as the city of Victoria, which is commemorating its centenary this year.

In conformance with the club's policy of yearly giving a concert in aid of charity this next event will be devoted to the Milk for Britain Fund, being sponsored by the Kinsmen's Club of Canada and this city. Miss Patsy Swift, a Victoria girl who has been studying singing in Chicago for the past three years and who has gained an estimable reputation in that city for her work on the concert platform, will be the assisting artist.

RATION NEWS

Meat Rationing
Meat rationing will start during May. Details of the plan, including charts showing the coupon values of each cut of meat, will be available shortly. The meat ration of approximately two pounds per week per person will include a certain percentage of bone. All cuts to be rationed will be classified according to bone content and different amounts of each class may therefore be purchased.

Armed Forces
Ration Cards are issued to members of the Armed Forces when they are on leave for five days, or more. They may be obtained at a Local Ration Board or Branch of the Ration Administration on presentation of leave pass or letter from a C.O. The value of the coupons in the Temporary Cards is similar to that of the corresponding coupons in ration books.

Visitors to Canada
On application to a Local Ration Board or Branch of the Ration Administration, visitors to Canada for five days, or longer, may secure Ration Cards on completion of a visitor's application form.

Illegal Sales
It is illegal for any dealer to tie the sale of any goods to the sale of a rationed commodity. For instance, your dealer cannot force you to buy rhubarb in his store if you wish to purchase the extra pound of sugar allowed for cooking rhubarb for table use. No. 1 Spare "B" (blue) Coupon, good for the extra pound of sugar, for rhubarb, is now valid. It expires May 31.

Butter Coupons
Butter Coupons Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 are now good. The first five expire on April 30; Coupon No. 6 expires May 31; Coupon No. 7 becomes good on April 24, Coupon No. 8 on May 1, and Coupon No. 9 on May 8. These Coupons also expire May 31.

Local Ration Boards
525 Local Ration Boards have been opened across Canada for the convenience of the public. Applications for Temporary Ration Cards for members of the Armed Forces, for visitors to Canada, and for replacements of lost or stolen books, are available at these offices. Notification of change of name or address may also be filed there. Find out where your Local Ration Board is located and refer to it when you have ration problems.

This column will appear in this newspaper every week to keep you up-to-date on Ration News. Clip and keep for reference.

Honor Rolls Are Available From National Defence

Symbolizing in striking and authentic heraldic form the historic majesty of the British Empire honor rolls have been designed by A. J. Casson, R.C.A., and will be forwarded to any interested organization by the Department of National Defence, to meet the ever growing need for a large honor roll of approved and uniform design for use in industry, churches, schools and clubs, in recognition of those loyal men and women who have volunteered for active service in the armed forces of Canada.

The basic motif of the honor rolls is the Canadian coat of arms, with flanking shields reproducing the maple leaf of Canada, the shamrock of Ireland, the thistle of Scotland, the rose of England, and the fleur-de-lis of French Canada. Shown in the design of the base are the heraldic flags of the navy, army and air force.

Reproduction of this honor roll is by a process which gives an especial brilliance to the colors and at the same time provides the greatest degree of permanence. Colors used are red, blue, green, yellow, buff and gold.

This honor roll is supplied and delivered free of cost by the Department of National Defence, and has the richness and dignity of a fine piece of illumination.

Parent-Teacher Federation Comes of Age This Week

By D. D.

Born of a realization of probable curtailment of educational and family standards during the Great War, parents saw the necessity of giving whole-hearted support to a movement first introduced to British Columbia by Mrs. W. A. Lorimer, of Victoria, namely Parent-Teacher. Familiar with the work of the organization in her native California, she established the first Parent-Teacher Association September 18, 1915, in Craigflower School, Victoria.

Those in Vancouver soon united to form the Vancouver Parent-Teacher Federation. The interest now being province-wide, a meeting was called in 1922 in Vancouver to take in all associations throughout the province, sixty in number.

This year marks the twenty-first convention of the British Columbia Parent-Teacher Federation, its "coming of age" anniversary, so to speak, and from Port Alberni in the West to Kimberley in the East, Prince Rupert in the North to Oseyes in the South, parent-teacher associations function and delegates will meet in Vancouver on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

What is the purpose of a parent-teacher group. A real parent-teacher association enables teachers and parents to work together for the welfare of all children. Another question: what has been accomplished materially or otherwise by the British Columbia Parent-Teacher Federation?

In retrospect:

Visual education and music credits have become a part of the school programme and it is interesting to note that the Provincial Federation pioneered in these fields urging their establishment.

The Weir-Putnam survey in 1925 resulted through agitation of British Columbia Parent-Teacher members, added to the Teachers' Federation, that an educational survey be conducted. The British Columbia Federation has campaigned actively for the establishment of vocational guidance training courses; technical schools for boys and girls; increased and permanent Federal grants for education; the junior high school system; sight saving classes, accredited high schools and the establishment of many dental clinics in the province.

It is gratifying to add to this list an objective achieved after a long, hard struggle—the establishment of the chair of home economics at the University of British Columbia.

In 1928 pioneers of the federation approached the university and the Government regarding the establishment of a home economics chair and were told "$80,000 is necessary before such a course can be started." Did that daunt the courageous group? No! Out they went, solicited the aid of other provincial groups and raised $14,000. Back to the university again and classes were started, but for just two years. Then cuts in Government grants and the classes were discontinued. But a permanent trust fund committee was set up, working tirelessly and constantly keeping the matter before the university board and the Government. In September, 1942, efforts were rewarded by an announcement by Hon. H. G. T. Perry, Minister of Education, of the establishment of the home economics chair of the University of British Columbia.

Apart from work affecting the educational system and changes in the curriculum other interests hold the attention of members.

Parent education has been one of the chief interests of Parent-Teacher Associations. The year 1930 marked the first "Parent's Institute" for the training of laymen in parent education under the sponsorship of the British Columbia Parent-Teacher Federation and the University of British Columbia.

In 1938, a series of lectures dealing with the Bible was enthusiastically attended—the historical background of the Bible, its literary nature, and its presentation to children were outlined.

Lectures on mental hygiene were carried out by the Federation in the opening months of the present war.

Study and discussion groups play no small part in parent education and it is here that members derive some of the greatest benefits.

Other features of the movement are: The never-ending struggle to keep newsstands free of salacious literature; education in preventive health measures and the pre-school field. The youth welfare committee is on the alert to urge the adequate care of students relieving labor shortages during Summer months. The encouragement of school boy patrols has been supported by the British Columbia Federation.

The introduction of Better Parenthood Week to Canada by the British Columbia Federation three years ago caught the public fancy. Churches, social services, civic and health groups participated in its observance which is now Canada-wide.

JAMES BAY

A bazaar and tea sponsored by the James Bay P.-T.A. was held on Wednesday at South Park School, realized the gratifying sum of $134. Mrs. Dawson, president of the Victoria P.-T.A. Council, opened the affair and was presented with a bouquet of flowers by Mrs. D. B. Cantell. Tea was served by Mrs. King and Mrs. Ansfield, assisted by pupils of the school. Stalls displaying novelties, aprons, fancy-work and wartime cooking did a rapid business. Special entertainment was provided for the children.

SIR JAMES DOUGLAS

The auditorium of the Sir James Douglas School had been beautifully decorated, under the direction of Mrs. A. Martin, assisted by Mrs. Heard and Mrs. Houston, with Spring flowers and greenery for the Spring festival, which took place on Wednesday afternoon. A number of parents and friends were present, including Mrs. A. S. Christie, of the Victoria School Board. The programme took the form of songs and folk dances, given by the pupils of the school, and much praise was given to the teachers for the manner in which the children performed. Mr. Wilson, principal, welcomed the guests, while Mrs. W. H. Yardley, president of the P.-T.A., apologized for the lack of the usual friendly cup of tea, due to the rationing, it was stated.

Civic Federation Taking Action on Bonus Application

Member organizations of the Civic Federation of Greater Victoria will be asked their opinion regarding application for a conciliation board to deal with the federation's recent request to the City Council for a cost-of-living bonus.

The proposal was turned down by the City Council at its last meeting. Edward Callan, president, said last night, following a special meeting of the federation in the Fire Hall, called to consider the question.

Negotiations are now proceeding between the federation and the Civic Protective Association, Mr. Callan said, and re-affiliation of the two groups is expected shortly.

Asks Action On Military Hospital Here

Chosen Tuesday night at a meeting of representatives of numerous civic, business, patriotic, labor and service club groups held to discuss and act upon the urgent need for better military hospitalization in the Vancouver Island area, a central committee of eight headed by R. H. B. Ker has drafted a resolution for consideration by Ottawa, and locally, the various organizations participating in the campaign.

Copies of the resolution are being sent to the Minister of National Defence, also the ministers of national defence for air and naval affairs, and the Minister of Pensions and Health, all of whom are directly concerned in the administration of military hospitals throughout the Dominion.

As prepared by the committee consisting of Mr. Ker, chairman, and Brigadier Sutherland Brown, Mrs. I. Fleming, Mrs. A. C. Phipps, Reeve Alex Lockley of Esquimalt, R. Knight, A. Palmer and Ald. P. E. George, reads in full as follows:

Whereas it is urgent and imperative that proper provision be made available for the hospitalization of ex-service men and women in the Greater Victoria area, this hospital for the purposes of economy and administration should be located in the heavily populated area of the southern end of Vancouver Island, and,

Whereas this can be most economically and efficiently effected by erecting additions to existing hospitals possessing the facilities for the special professional services required for the best treatment of such service personnel, thereby also providing permanent buildings to serve these war-disabled men and women from time to time in future years. This hospital may possibly be required for a period up to fifty years for ex-service men and women, and should therefore be of permanent construction, and,

Whereas it is well known that grave injustice was inflicted upon residents of the Greater Victoria area who suffered disabilities from service in the First Great War, and upon their families, by reason of their being compelled to leave their families in times of sickness and distress and to proceed to Shaughnessy Hospital in Vancouver for surgical and other treatment—this by departmental regulation—and,

Whereas, this injustice and suffering must not be inflicted upon residents of the Greater Victoria area who have been and who may hereafter be disabled as a result of their service in this and other wars,

Now therefore be it resolved by this meeting of many organizations enumerated below, assembled this 20th day of April, 1943, that we do most respectfully and strongly urge the Government of the Dominion of Canada to take immediate action to provide adequate and permanent buildings in or adjacent to the City of Victoria for the care and treatment of those residents of the Greater Victoria area who are suffering from disabilities due to their service in this and former wars, and further,

That we request the Government to require and instruct Departmental officials to co-operate with the foregoing committee consisting of residents of the city, and members of municipal councils, veterans' organizations, service clubs, the medical profession and others specially qualified and interested and to give due weight to their advice and to their knowledge of local conditions.

Among the organizations represented by this committee are: The municipal councils of Victoria, Saanich, Esquimalt and Oak Bay; the Canadian Legion, Local Council of Women, I.O.D.E., Victoria Trades and Labor Council, Ministerial Association, Council of Social Agencies, Victoria Chamber of Commerce, Rotary, Kiwanis, Kinsmen, Lions, Gyro, the Amps and other bodies whose members are to have the opportunity of discussing and acting upon the resolution at their respective meeting dates hereafter.

Chinese Wardens of Victoria Honored in Ottawa A.R.P. Paper

An excellent summary of the background and work of the Chinese section of the Victoria A.R.P. organization is contained in the latest issue of the A.R.P. Bulletin, published by the office of Civil Air Raid Precautions in Ottawa.

The account shows that the Victoria section, with fifty-four well trained members, is by far the largest in proportion to population when compared with those in Vancouver and Montreal.

Credit is also given the local Chinese for their efforts in printing A.R.P. pamphlets and circulars in Chinese, in order to reach all members of the colony here.

Glancing Over Sport—

By JOE DELABUNTY

BY WIRE AND VIA TELEGRAM

Sports Editor,—Saw the second Allan Cup play-off game. Victoria club is playing its head off and is giving the highly-touted Commando team a real run for its money. To date the publicity centres around Ottawa and it is felt the Victorians, working on army rations, deserve a great deal of credit. This credit might be conveyed to the team by telegrams and letters from fans who enjoyed them so much this season. Let them have them before Saturday night.

TWO SPORT FANS.

Comment: This telegram arrived yesterday from Regina from a couple of ardent supporters of the local squad. We all know that the Army lads are playing their hearts out in an attempt to beat out the Commandos and they deserve all the credit in the world for their fighting spirit. The way the team has come from behind both times shows they have plenty on the ball and don't even know the meaning of the word quit. A few words of encouragement via the telegraph wires wouldn't do any harm; in fact, it would cheer up the boys for their important "do-or-die" battle tomorrow night in Calgary. So, folks, get busy today and drop a wire to the club, care of the Calgary Arena.

Dear Joe,—Having read your column and very interested in same, I am wondering why there has been no mention of the man who really made our Army hockey club the fine team it is. His long-standing experience showed itself as soon as he took over the team; and he quickly brought it out of its losing slump. He made a few changes and put out a real hockey machine. So I say, hats off to Lieut. Warburton, who really built this team. What do you say, Joe?

Yours for fair play,

SERGEANT SWANSON, R.C.O.C.

Comment: The man you speak about is a swell fellow, a grand sport and was well liked by the players when connected with the Army hockey team. He worked hard for the club as its manager; as a matter of fact, he treated the fellows as if they were members of his own family. The reason why there hasn't been any mention of his name since the team has been on the trail of the Allan Cup is that he dropped the managerial reins during the British Columbia play-offs with the Vancouver R.C.A.F. for reasons best known by himself.

COMMANDOS BY FOUR GOALS

Victoria's ice ambassadors are at the crossroads Saturday night in the Alberta city. They must win from Ottawa to stay in the running for the senior hockey championship of Canada. Their backs are solidly against the proverbial wall, so it's safe to say that they will be in there fighting harder than ever in an effort to prolong the series. If the Army could devise some plan of bottling up that former New York Ranger front line of the Colvilles and Shiblicky, their chances would soar skyward, but that's a big problem in itself. The leader of that Commando trio of snipers is Neil Colville, one of the greatest centremen to hit the N.H.L. for a long time. He is foxy, smart and knows every move of his linemates once they start heading for the opposition net . . . Joffre Desilets, the fearless Frenchman, has been the scoring star of the Army so far, with a pair of markers in each game. He repeatedly tears in for rebounds recklessly and doesn't care whether Cooper, Kampman or Reardon body-checks him into the gallery seats . . . As this is the last column until Easter Sunday morning, yours truly is making his prediction a day in advance, so here goes: Commandos by four goals and don't say I didn't tell you so.

ODDS AND ENDS

Remember when Great Britain's hope for the world's lightweight boxing championship, "Kid" Berg, was knocked out twelve years ago tomorrow night at Chicago? Tony Canzoneri battered the Englishman from post to post before stowing him away for good in the third round of a scheduled ten-rounder. Canzoneri finally lost the crown to Lou Ambers in 1936 . . . Tomorrow evening in New Westminster the barnstorming Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League will display their stickhandling skill for the benefit of Northwest fans when they go against the Navy in an exhibition game. The sailors will be bolstered by the addition of the three Bentley brothers. Several Victorians are going to take advantage of the Easter week-end and will see the big-timers in action. If nothing else they will be watching some of the finest hockey players in the world strutting their stuff, and that's worth the price of admission alone . . . They may as well wrap up the Memorial Cup and send it to Oshawa. Since dropping the first game to Winnipeg Rangers by the odd goal in eleven, Charlie Conacher's Generals have swept to two convincing victories, and now are within reach of their third championship in recent years. Winnipeg has a sweet club, but the Oshawa speedsters are just that much sweeter. The chances are that those not eligible for the draft will be wearing National League uniforms next season, for the scouts from the various teams are in Toronto these nights looking over prospects for rebuilding their already depleted ranks . . . A long lay-off from golf has its effects on the ordinary shotmaker, but not top-ranking linksmen like Ben Hogan. The little Texan took time out from his army chores to win another tournament. He had two practice rounds before teeing off, the first time he has hit a ball for seven months, and then he blasted his way around the course in 67, five under. He was over the first nine in 37 and fired a sensational 30 for the back stretch.

TORONTO, April 22. — Pacific Coast hockey fans are riled because they have a team in the Allan Cup final for the first time, yet haven't a chance to see any games of the championship series. Queens Park Arena at New Westminster offered a guarantee to stage the final, was refused and the Victoria-Ottawa series was moved into Winnipeg, Regina and Calgary. Johnny (Vancouver Province) Park comments: "We folks on the shores of the Pacific who haven't seen an Allan Cup final for almost two decades will have to wait the dawning of a new era before we glimpse the West against East on home ice." . . . Coast fans have one consolation. They'll see Montreal's N.H.L. Canadiens in action at New Westminster Saturday and money in exhibition games with Victoria Navy, strengthened by Chicago's three Bentley brothers.

Canadiens are picking up some hockey gossip on their California tour. The word is that "Cyclone" Taylor is working on plans for an all-Coast league after the war. San Diego, Hollywood, Los Angeles and San Francisco would form the South division; Vancouver, Seattle, Portland and possibly New Westminster would form the North group.

WINNIPEG IS LOGICAL SPOT

Johnny (Winnipeg Tribune) Buss quotes Manager Frank Selk, of Toronto Maple Leafs, as saying Winnipeg is a logical site for a National Hockey League franchise after the war on condition the city builds a rink of 7,500 seating capacity . . . They're hanging curtains on the pool room windows out in Trail, B.C. The Trail Daily Times now has a woman sports editor—Blanche Arseneau. . . . Pat Egan, the former Brooklyn Americans hockey hazard, has appointed himself personal bodyguard to Johnny Greco, lightweight ring sensation of Montreal, where both are in the army. Egan has finally found someone he can beat at matching coins. . . . Hamilton is still the track and field centre of the Dominion. Should Gunder Haegg, the Swedish running sensation, cross the Atlantic for a United States tour, Hamilton hopes to get him for an exhibition race.

ROUND AND ABOUT

Woodstock isn't fooling in its efforts to build a junior "A" club for the next Ontario hockey campaign. Already Fred Cox has signed Teddy Bedard, of North Bay, for the Woodstock club and is eyeing a Sault Ste. Marie junior. Johnny Ubriaco . . . Johnny Sands, former Canadian badminton champion from Vancouver, has enlisted in the navy. . . . Goalie Harvey Bennett and Forwards Chuck Scharza and Ken Smith, of Oshawa's hockey Generals, are on Boston Bruins' reserve list.

Wolves are believed to have disappeared from England before Tudor times.

Hockey Clubs Off For Calgary Game

Victoria and Commandos Leave for Scene of Saturday's Fixture

REGINA, April 22 (CP)—Coach Alex Smith and his Ottawa Commandos, Eastern Canada senior hockey champions, indicated early today that they are saving the rejoicing until the Allan Cup is in their possession.

Leading the best-of-five Dominion senior championship final series against Victoria Army two games to none, the Commandos showed signs of worry at the ability of the Westerners to capitalize when given a man advantage.

"Penalties have been costly in this series," Smith commented.

Criticizing the officiating, Smith said the refereeing was "terrific."

"We might as well have been playing football the way interference got by."

"We have the better club and with no bad breaks should finish it off in two more games," he said. "I figure they won't take three straight from us."

Lieut. Bud Ray, Coach of the losing team, said he believes the move to Calgary for the third game will do his team good.

"We had unusual success there earlier on this trip," he said, recalling how Victoria knocked out the Alberta senior champions, Calgary Currie Army, and took the initial game of the Western final against Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers.

"Regina has been a jinx to us anyway. We've lost two games on this ice." Victoria lost the second game of the Western final here.

Players had a new experience when they had to take off their skates to get the blades touched up. The ice was good and the skates had to be just right. The game was delayed almost an hour.

After the game, J. W. Hamilton, of Regina, presented Pte. Jim Henry, Ottawa's goalkeeper, with a traveling case on behalf of Regina admirers. Henry was netminder for Regina Rangers when they won the Allan Cup two years ago.

Both teams left for Calgary tonight.

Mrs Jackson and Mrs Lawson in Final at Uplands

MRS. E. Jackson and Mrs. K. Lawson, who was winning golfing honors as Joan Fletcher a few years ago, will meet this afternoon for the women's championship of the Uplands Club. They worked their way into the last bracket yesterday by coming through in the semi-finals. Mrs. Jackson, medal winner last Monday with a card of 86, disposed of Mrs. F. Dawson, 5 and 3, while Mrs. Lawson took care of Mrs. Art Dowell, a former British Columbia title-holder, 6 and 4. The final will start at 12.30 over the eighteen-hole distance. Mrs. F. B. Shore won her way into the final of the first flight by winning from Mrs. C. Brown, one up, and she will meet the winner of Mrs. W. Erickson and Mrs. D. Fletcher who finished all square yesterday. They will replay today. Mrs. J. R. Hibberson won the second flight honors by defeating Mrs. E. H. Livingstone, two up.

Capture Provincial Basketball Honors

Defeating Vancouver Boeings, 25-22, in a sudden-death game on the Victoria High School court, Bob Whyte's Rookies (pictured above) were recently crowned British Columbia intermediate "A" basketball champions. Boeings, who played last season under the name of Nelsons, were defending their provincial hoop title. For the majority of the members of the local squad it was their second championship. Rookies won the junior girls' honors about three seasons ago. Those in the picture are: Back row, left to right, Anna Milliken, Marjorie McAllister, Laura Manton, Elaine Coates and Marion Kennedy (captain); front row, left to right, Phyllis Lea, Georgina Levin, Bob Whyte (coach) and Mafalda Di Iorio.

Sir James Douglas And Oak Bay High Win Major Awards

Carry Off Aggregate Trophies At Annual School Swim Gala

Compiling the largest number of points in their respective divisions Oak Bay High and Sir James Douglas Schools carried off major honors in the eighteenth annual school gala staged last night at the Crystal Garden.

Students from Oak Bay collected sixteen points, one more than Victoria High School in the aggregate for the Sir Edward Beatty Trophy, the Central Junior High placed third with eight points.

Sir James Douglas natators scored a more convincing triumph in the competition confined to elementary schools and became the first winners of the handsome Victoria Amateur Swimming Club Cup, presented this year by the veteran local organization. The champions amassed twenty-two points, nine more than the second place Monterey School squad. Mount View High School and South Park each finished with thirteen points to share a third place tie.

LARGE GALLERY AT THE GALA

The large, enthusiastic gallery of proud parents and students witnessed many fine finishes and some great races, but the thrill of the programme was provided in the girl's relay for the Pendray Cup. Mount View High School finally won the event and the silverware, their gast swimmer finishing only inches in front of Monterey's representative.

Students from the championship Sir James Douglas School won the boy's relay event for the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion Trophy, presented to the winners by W. C. Hudson, branch president. North Ward and South Park trailed the winner.

H. S. Hurn, principal of the Victoria West School, presented the many fine prizes to the successful competitors.

More than 300 entries representing twenty-two schools in Greater Victoria competed in the event, and the smooth, capable way in which the big gala was handled was a tribute to the work of the officials. The meet was sponsored by the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club.

Yankees Set Back Washington, 5-4; Reds Beat Cards

Weatherly's Hit Decides Close Game; Cincinnati Blanks St. Louis, 1-0

NEW YORK, April 22 (AP).—New York Yankees managed to win their opening game from Washington Senators, 5-4, before 5,860 fans.

Roy Weatherly, little centre-fielder obtained from Cleveland to fill the big void left in the Yankees' line-up by Joe DiMaggio's entry into the army, nailed down the victory.

With the Yankees trailing by one run, the bases loaded and one out in the last of the ninth, Weatherly delivered a DiMaggio touch to the proceedings by hammering a double into left field for two runs and the ball game.

Big Ernie Bonham, of the Yanks, and Earl Wynn, of the Senators, waged a scoreless pitching duel for the first four innings of the game, but an error by Joe Gordon, trying for a double play, gave Washington a run in the fifth.

The Yanks scored twice in their half of the same inning on a walk and three singles by Nick Etten, John Lindell and George Stirnweiss.

Another error, this time by Stirnweiss, gave the Senators a chance to tie the score—George Case getting a base on a fumble, stealing second and scoring on a single by Stan Spence.

Joe Gordon then smashed the season's first home run in the major leagues to put the Yankees ahead again, but the Senators refused to give up easily.

Mickey Vernon walked to open the ninth and after two were out, Johnny Sullivan singled, Gene Moore batted for Wynn and also singled to score Vernon, and Ellis Clary doubled Sullivan home, forcing Johnny Murphy to relieve Bonham to get the final put out.

However, Mickey Haefner and Owen Scheetz, rookie hurlers who shared the ninth inning mound chore for Washington, were wild and let the Yanks load the bases without a hit ahead of Weatherly's double.

The crowd was the smallest inaugural turn-out in the history of Yankee Stadium.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22 (AP).—A line drive double by Pete Fox in the fourth inning was converted into a 1-0 victory for Boston Red Sox today as Tex Hughson and Jess Flores opened the American League season here with a brilliant pitching duel before 4,553 at Shibe Park.

Hughson, a twenty-game winner for the Red Sox last year, allowed three hits, and Flores, rookie from Los Angeles, gave only two before yielding to a pinch-batter in the Athletics' eighth, Roger Wolff set down Boston in order in the ninth.

The A's announced that Wednesday's postponed game will be played off tomorrow, originally an open date.

Detroit first drew blood in the sixth inning when Roger Cramer beat out a slow roller for his third of five hits, advanced to second on Rip Radcliff's sacrifice, and scored when Freshman Dick Wakefield doubled.

Rugged Rudy York, Tiger first baseman, poled out a fluke triple in the eighth, scoring Wakefield. York scored two pitches later on a long fly by Pinky Higgins.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

CINCINNATI, April 22 (AP).—Cincinnati Reds claimed their fourth straight extra-inning, one-run victory today—two exhibition and two regular—as Ray Starr took full advantage of the new dehydrated ball to blank St. Louis Cardinals again, 1-0.

The ten-inning decision gave the Cards, once the slugging terrors of the National League, twenty-one consecutive scoreless innings, eleven of them yesterday at the mercy of Johnny Vander Meer.

Lonnie Frey opened today's tenth inning with a single and went to second on Mike McCormick's sacrifice. Max Marshall singled and made second on the throw home, although Frey pulled up at third. Then Frank McCormick received Ernie White's third international pass of the day. Eddie Miller popped to Ray Sanders, but Bert Haas singled Frey in with the ball game.

As yesterday, the Reds put on a ninth-inning threat that came to nothing. Frank McCormick opened with a single and was sacrificed to second. Haas drew an intentional pass and Eric Tipton grounded out. Ray Mueller also was passed purposely to fill the bases, but White made Starr dribble into a force play.

Again, as yesterday, the Cards started hot. Jimmy Brown getting a single to open the first. He got to third on a couple of infield plays but died there.

Real trouble brewed in the fourth when, after Debs Garms bunted out, Tipton tripped on Stan Musial's drive, which went for a triple. But Starr, who walked no one through the day, made Whitey Kurowski and Walker Cooper ground out.

The ball game demonstrated again, that unless the new baseball gets hard pretty soon, this is a pitchers' year.

The Reds have an even dozen hits and two runs to show for twenty-one innings and the Cards seven hits and no runs. The Reds won two overtime exhibition games from the Cleveland Indians over last week-end.

BROOKLYN, April 22 (AP).—Brooklyn Dodgers got away on the right foot today in their National League pennant campaign by belting New York Giants, 5-2, before 16,775 fans at Ebbets Field.

Ed Head held the Giants to six hits and after the first inning was never in danger.

Dodgers shelled Bill Lohrman off the mound with a three-run rally on four hits in the third to settle the outcome, although each team tallied one run in the seventh.

Manager Mel Ott made four of the Giants' hits and drove in both their runs. The Dodgers' eight safeties were scattered, but Augie Gioseap drove in two of their runs, and also made two errors.

Passeau pitched two-hit ball for six frames, but weakened in the seventh when the Pirates bunched three singles and a pass for two runs and a 3-3 tie. Pinch-Hitters Jim Wasdell and Johnny Barrett singled across the tying runs.

The Cubs came back in their half to fill the bases off Lloyd Dietz, third Pittsburgh hurler, on rookie Eddie Stanky's single and two passes. Phil Cavaretta drove in the edge run with a long fly.

The game attracted 3,325 spectators.

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE

JERSEY CITY, N.J., April 22 (AP).—Buffalo spoiled Jersey City's opening today by defeating the Little Giants, 5-3. The paid ticket sale was announced as 52,359, but actually there were less than 25,000 fans on hand for the launching of the International League's sixtieth season.

The Bisons picked on a trio of Jersey hurlers for thirteen hits, Mickey Rocco featuring their attack with four safeties, one of them a double while Ed Kobesky laced out three singles.

Mayor Frank Hague, sponsor of the tremendous ticket sale, led the march to the flagpole in the pre-game ceremonies.

Buffalo besides the victory picked up a cheque for $9,949.

Levy's wallop came off Boutnpaw Kemp Wicker, who engaged Ken Holcombe in a tight pitching battle all the way. Wicker yielded seven hits, while the Wings, piloted by Pepper Martin, who played in right, collected six off Holcombe.

Bowling League Holds Windup

Gibson's Commercial Tenpin League finished its season this week when members of the various teams attended a supper in Terry's dining-room. During the evening the Phoenix Cup, won by Northwestern Creamery over Tillicum "B" in the final play-off, was presented to the skipper of the winning team, Syd Jenkins won the Ferguson Trophy for high average. High single honors for the season went to G. Bird, of Pollard Construction squad.

J. Paulding was elected president for the coming year, and F. Barris to the vice-presidency, and C. Marks was chosen secretary-treasurer. F. H. A. Norton was made honorary president. J. Thompson, C.I.L. Dynamiters, won high three-game prize with a score of 671.

B. Lister and G. Ellis provided the entertainment during the evening.

Will Perform Here Tomorrow Afternoon

DANNY Holden, star backfielder of the Kitsilano High School Canadian Football Club, Mainland high school champions, is pictured above, packing the ball in the championship final against Britannia High School. The Vancouver gridders will be here tomorrow to oppose St. Louis Combines in a sudden-death game for the British Columbia championship, and Holden, who booted the field goal which defeated Britannia, will be a marked man. Kits boast of a three-year unbeaten record and are rated as one of the smartest high school grid squads in the province. Fast and colorful, the visitors play the Notre Dame style of ball. St. Louis Combines are the pick of St. Louis College and V.H.S. Alumni squads and should make a creditable showing against the classy invaders. The inter-city classic is slated for 4:15 o'clock, and will be preceded by a six-man midget fixture between St. Louis College and Cec Fletcher's Men's Shop at 3:15 o'clock. To add color to the programme, arrangements have been made to have the Victoria Boys' Band in attendance.

It was announced last night that Brother English, principal of St. Louis College, will kick off the ball to start the boys on their way in the feature attraction. Dr. John Sturdy, well-known Canadian football enthusiast, has donated a cup, which will be presented to the winning team.

MIAMI, Fla., April 22 (CP).—Nine Latin-American journalists left Miami by train today to inspect war plants and military establishments in the United States and Canada. Their first stop will be at Fort Benning, Ga.

Kinsmen Join Local Drive For Hospital

One of the first local groups to meet since an organized drive was undertaken this week to obtain better military hospitalization for the Vancouver Island area, the Kinsmen Club last night endorsed unanimously the proposal as outlined by President Bill Passmore and Ed Savannah, who represented the club at the initial meeting in the City Council chamber last Tuesday night.

As their guest speaker last night the Kinsmen had James H. Hill, Victoria accountant, whose topic was "The Art of Thinking to Advantage." Citing the real danger "in the habit of mental acquiesence," Mr. Hill urged his listeners to think individually, not to be meekly submissive or receptive to another person's thought, as, he said, the Germans are.

Fear, the speaker said, "is the heaviest and cruelest load which rides in our minds," and fear would have to be banished in order to make room for orderly thinking. He also advised his audience to learn to evaluate criticism, the better to be independent of criticism which was unimportant.

Mr. Hill thought it unwise to delve too far into the past, or the future. "Don't give 'then' and 'when' too much of the time for thought which belongs to 'now'," he concluded. Introduced by Walter Miles, Mr. Hill was thanked by Ed Smith.

Another speaker, Harold Neale, of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, explained briefly the structure and functions of his organization. Mr. Neale, a member of the local Kinsmen Club, has been reassigned to the Vancouver office. Several members offered expressions of regret over Mr. Neale's departure, and President Bill Passmore tendered the club's best wishes for his continued success.

Ted Saunders announced that the club had recently forwarded a cheque for $500 to the Milk for Britain Fund. Reports were received concerning the Arion Club concert on May 17, under Kinsmen auspices, the Mark Kenny show and the possibility of a Little Theatre attraction which scored heavily in four recent performances in Vancouver.

The district convention at Port Alberni over the Easter week-end will be attended by a representative number from Victoria. The club extended congratulations to Ron Whittington upon his election as a director of the Vancouver Island branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

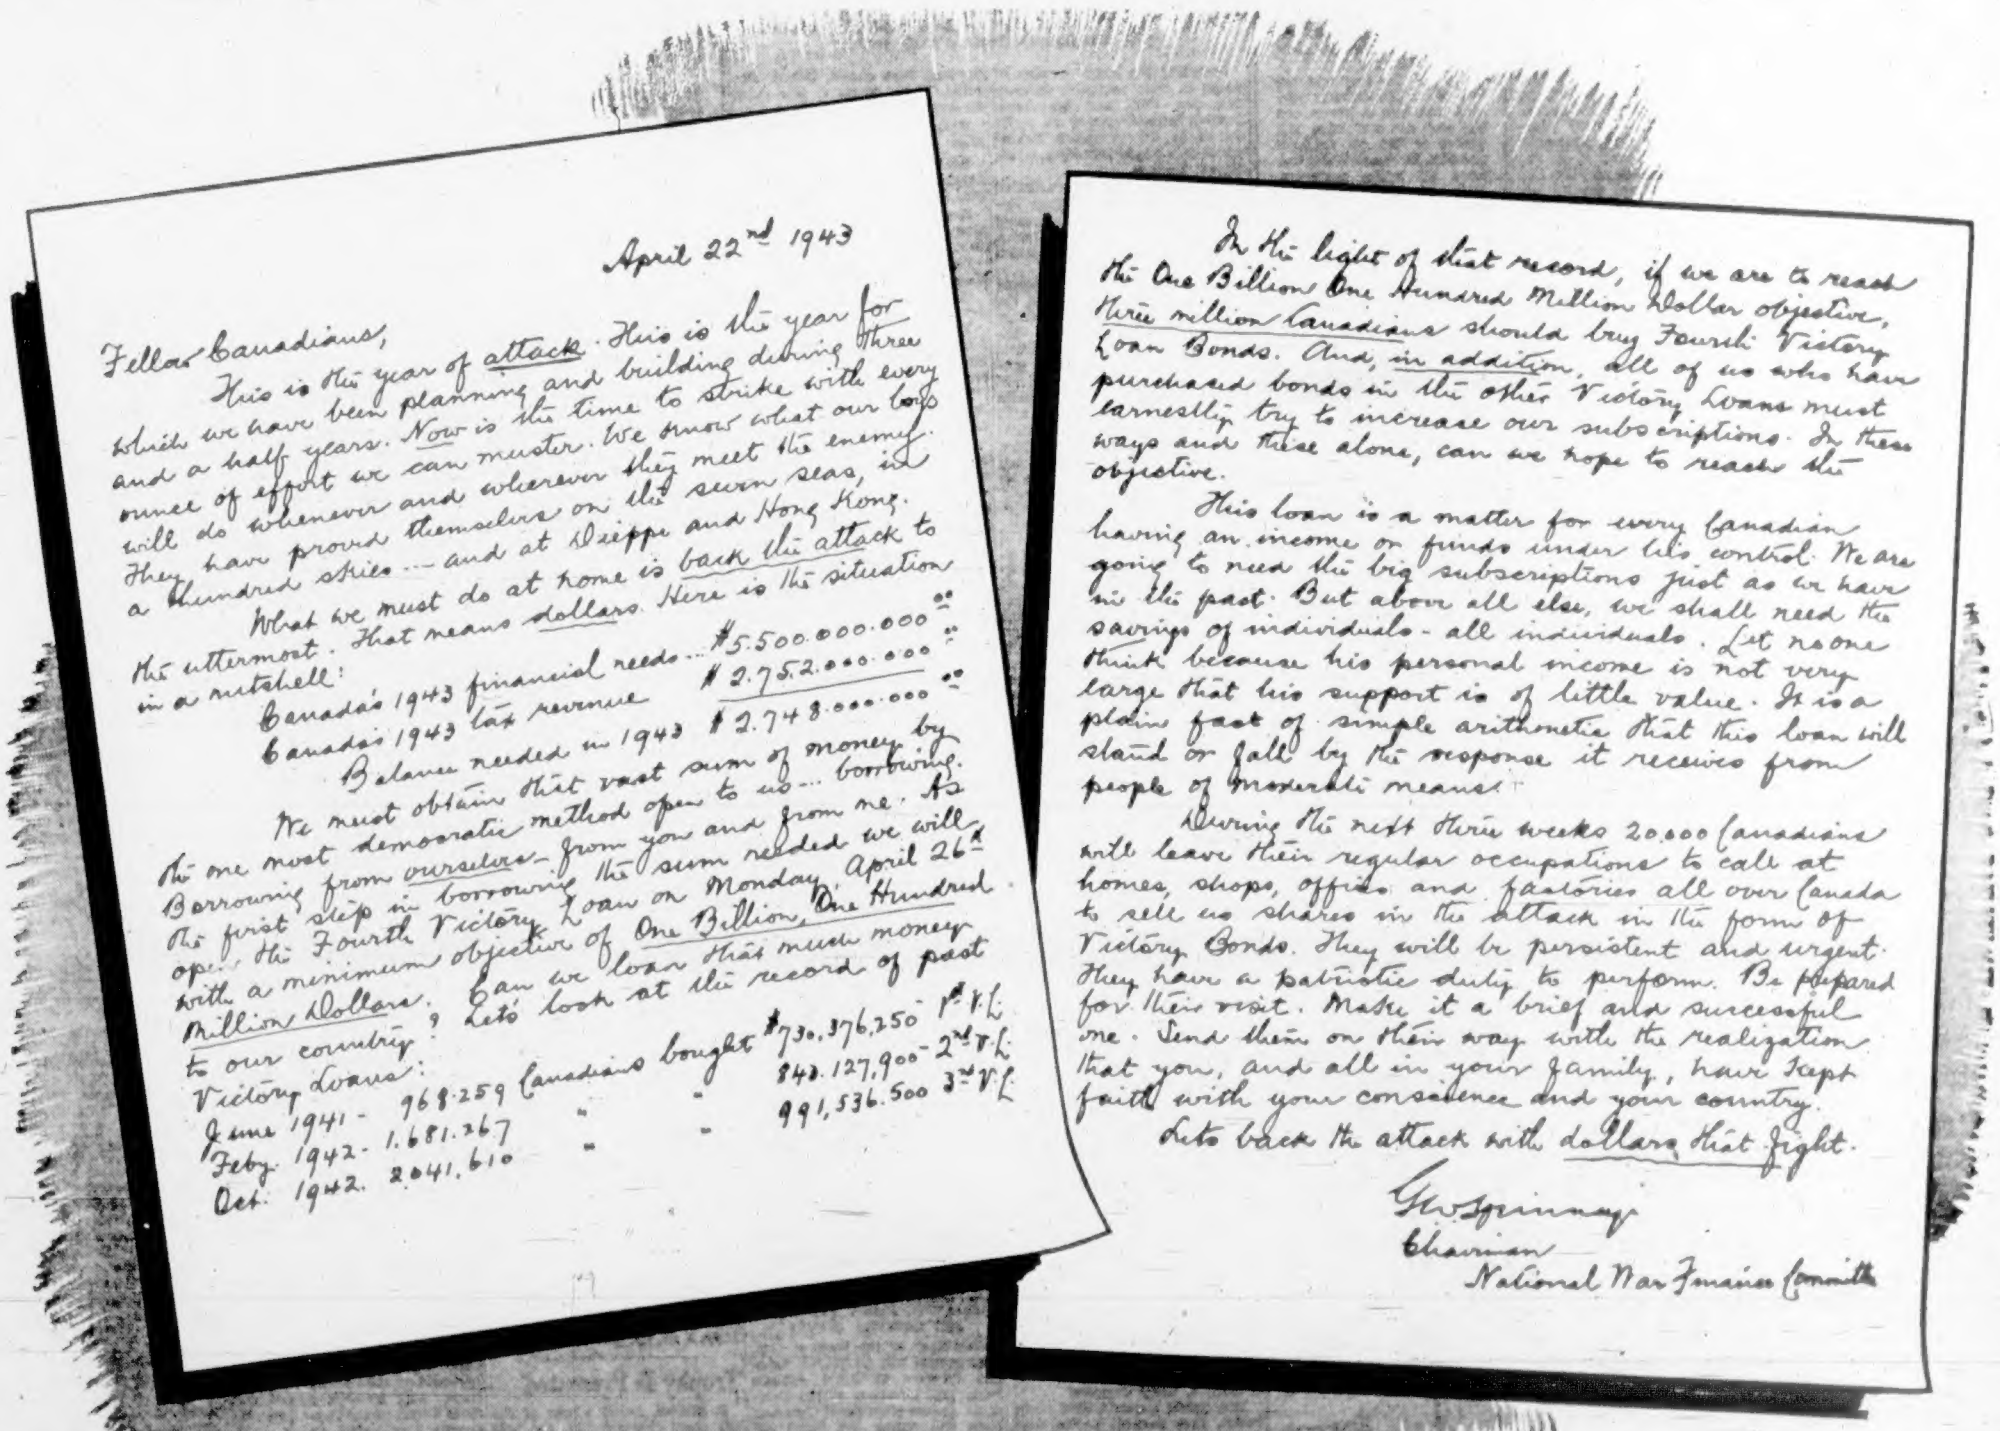
NOW WAR CORRESPONDENT

TORONTO, April 23 (Friday) (CP).—Sgt. Ralph Allen, native of Winnipeg, who left his job as sports columnist for The Toronto Globe and Mail the day after Pearl Harbor to join the Canadian Army as a gunner, has been granted his discharge to take over the assignment as war correspondent for the newspaper in the European theatre of operations.

Allen, twenty-nine, had been with The Globe and Mail for three years when he entered the army. Earlier he spent five years as sports columnist of The Winnipeg Tribune. He has been with the army in Britain for some time.

His appointment as war correspondent brings to almost twenty the number of Canadians assigned to cover the Canadian forces in the expected second front.



April 22nd 1943

Fellow Canadians,

This is the year of attack. This is the year for which we have been planning and building during three and a half years. Now is the time to strike with every ounce of effort we can muster. We know what our boys will do wherever and whenever they meet the enemy. They have proved themselves on the seven seas, in a hundred skies — and at Dieppe and Hong Kong.

What we must do at home is back the attack to the uttermost. That means dollars. Here is the situation in a nutshell:

Canada's 1943 financial needs ... $5,500,000,000
Canada's 1943 tax revenue ... $2,752,000,000
Balance needed in 1943 $2,748,000,000

We must obtain that vast sum of money by the one most democratic method open to us — borrowing. Borrowing from ourselves — from you and from me. Its the first step in borrowing the sum needed we will open the Fourth Victory Loan on Monday, April 26th with a minimum objective of One Billion, One Hundred Million Dollars. Can we loan that much money to our country? Let's look at the record of past Victory Loans:

June 1941 - 968,259 Canadians bought	$730,376,250	1st V.L.
Feby. 1942 - 1,681,267 " "	843,127,900	2nd V.L.
Oct. 1942 - 2,041,610 " "	991,536,500	3rd V.L.

In the light of that record, if we are to reach the One Billion One Hundred Million Dollar objective, three million Canadians should buy Fourth Victory Loan Bonds. And, in addition, all of us who have purchased bonds in the other Victory Loans must earnestly try to increase our subscriptions. In these ways and these alone, can we hope to reach the objective.

This loan is a matter for every Canadian having an income or funds under his control. We are going to need the big subscriptions just as we have in the past. But above all else, we shall need the savings of individuals - all individuals. Let no one think because his personal income is not very large that his support is of little value. It is a plain fact of simple arithmetic that this loan will stand or fall by the response it receives from people of moderate means.

During the next three weeks 20,000 Canadians will leave their regular occupations to call at homes, shops, offices and factories all over Canada to sell us shares in the attack in the form of Victory Bonds. They will be persistent and urgent. They have a patriotic duty to perform. Be prepared for their visit. Make it a brief and successful one. Send them on their way with the realization that you, and all in your family, have kept faith with your conscience and your country.

Let's back the attack with dollars that fight.

"Dina Cashman"

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER XI

She was awake when the dawn came coldly over the mountains and began to fill the cold room with grey light. Dina lay thinking, wondering would she say, what would Vere say, when they met?

She was not sure that she had been asleep at all, but when Martha, ready for bath and change, came yawning and complaining into the room at 6 o'clock Dina pretended to be asleep.

"Why we have to be routed out in the middle of the night," Martha grumbled. "You'd better get up, Dina; everyone is!"

Someone was hammering on the door.

"Girls!" It was Vere shouting to them. "Get up!"

Dina caught her breath; the blood raced to her heart. That was Vere, and she loved him with every fibre of soul and body. Of course she could meet him; there was nobody else in the world for her now.

"How soon'll you be ready?" he was calling.

"Oh, for heaven's sake!" Martha called back. "Give us time. We'll be out in six seconds!"

Ready in that many minutes they actually were, Dina equipped head to foot in the warm, gay clothes that were a part of the fun of the trip. Vere had stopped on the way up the day before to buy her woolen stockings, cap and scarf; she was wearing his sister's peasant sweater and she carried the great white coat to go over all.

High up in the great snowy mountains, with the exhilarating freshness of the icy air stinging color into her cheeks and her eyes blazing like stars, she felt suddenly confident and gay. Her tawny hair, not gold, not brown, had fluffed up against the lemon, black, and blue stripes of her cap; her hands were lost in striped mittens that came well up on her wrists.

It was not hard to join the milling and hilarious crowd that was gathering in the breaking dawn, to catch at Vere's hands and feel herself lost in his big embrace. Her very soul was warmed by his kiss.

"Dina, you look marvelous! Did you have coffee?"

"No; did you?"

"No, but some of them did."

"I'd rather wait and be starving for breakfast."

"So'd I. Oh, darling, how sweet you look!" She had another kiss and a wild embrace under cover of the morning shadows; then they were racing along the snowy trail laughing and shouting with the rest.

Her last fears disappeared; after all, she was nineteen and he was twenty-four; why shouldn't they be married? His family might not like it, but that had happened before. Families did not count. They loved each other, that was all that mattered!

And presently the Winter sun burst out brilliantly, shining gloriously on the snow, and laden clouds, spectacularly purple in the bright light, were massing on the southern mountains.

Nothing in Vere's manner in the slightest degree suggested that anything today was different from yesterday,—and Dina quickly adapted her manner to his and entered into the business of the morning as wholeheartedly as he did.

She immediately had her reward. He never left her side; there might have been no one else on the broad white hillside but themselves.

Vere's hand catching hers when she slipped in the snow; Vere steadying her body against his own, a big arm gripped tightly about her; Vere murmuring encouragements to her and laughing under his breath as she floundered and stumbled.

Both of them becoming gloriously warm and breathless and ravenously hungry, so that the brightly-lighted breakfast room of the hotel was heaven to reach at half-past nine, and the relays of hot coffee and bacon, waffles and fruit could not come fast enough or often enough.

The big place was filled with feasting holiday-makers; everyone was in great spirits, and when snow began to filter down softly across the windows, and all the outdoor world grew dim and mystical, Dina felt that she had been transplanted to a land unknown, where nothing of the dark sordid past could follow her.

She knew she was lovely in borrowed costume, and she knew Vere was proud of her. When they all scrambled out again after breakfast for a few more hours of excitement he stayed with her, hardly spoke to anyone else, and because of his complete absorption drew about himself and Dina all the other members of their own group, curious to see something of the girl who had so completely bewitched him.

They tobogganed down a long white hill with the powdered sugar flying down from the skies and up from the earth about them.

Some Pests of Victory Gardens

By A. DOWNES

Three generations of the carrot rust fly are known to occur in British Columbia, the first from the middle of April to May, the second in July and the third in September. But the time of their appearance will vary greatly according to the weather and it is possible that the generations may overlap to some extent so that there is no time when it is safe to omit methods of control.

Generally, weekly applications of commercial derris dust have given the best results, beginning when the plants are an inch or two high, using about a pound to each hundred feet of row and making three or four applications.

Good results have also been obtained by the use of naphthalene flakes or crude naphthalene. This material has been found by some people to flavor the roots and care should be taken to cease using it a month before the carrots are harvested.

Another method is to lay a strip of building paper or length of rope soaked with creosote down the rows near the plants. Care must be taken not to allow creosote to come in contact with the foliage, as it burns badly.

Until this pest has received longer study in British Columbia, it is difficult to make definite recommendations, but so far experience has shown that by delaying seeding until the middle of May, attack by the first generation may be avoided and control methods carried out later on the growing crop seem to produce a more definite effect.

Striped Pea Weevil or Sitona Weevil—Seedling peas an inch or two high are badly damaged and often destroyed by the attack of this little grey weevil, which nibbles the edges of the leaves. Immediately injury is noticed, the rows should be heavily dusted with a mixture of lead arsenate one part, hydrated lime ten parts, thoroughly mixed. Or, Cryolite dust may be used. Cryolite is a sodium-aluminum fluoride compound, occurring as a natural rock in Greenland, and is also made synthetically. It is a valuable substitute for lead arsenate and is superior to it for some purposes. Or derris dust may be used. Unfortunately there is a scarcity of derris, due to the war, and we may have to use such substitutes as are available. Dusting should be carried out in early morning or late evening when the dew is on the plants.

Common Pea Weevil—This weevil lives inside the peas and often its presence is not suspected until the dry peas are examined in the Spring. It is larger than the Sitona weevil and is about a quarter of an inch long. The principal thing in preventing attack by this insect is avoid sowing weevily peas. However the pea weevil has a wide range of flight and therefore peas may become infested by migrants from some distance away. Dusting the peas while in pod with derris powder has been recommended as a preventive. A possible substitute for derris would be one to ten lead arsenate and lime dust with one ounce of nicotine sulphate thoroughly mixed with each pound of dust.

Slugs—Use the commercial slug baits if available. Otherwise, good results can be obtained by dusting plants in the evening with one part of dehydrated copper sulphate (bluestone) to ten parts of lime. If the dehydrated form of bluestone cannot be obtained, heat the crystals in a moderate oven until they go to powder.

Earwigs—Especially destructive to young carrots. Do not fail to put down earwig bait and traps or dust heavily with derris. Most commercial baits are good. If bait is made at home according to the Government formula, remember that, since molasses is not obtainable, double the quantity of meat meal should be used, thus: Bran, twelve pounds; sodium fluoride, twelve ounces; meat meal, five pounds; water, six quarts. It is not necessary to scatter earwig bait thickly; one or two flakes of poisoned bran are sufficient to poison an earwig.

The Apple Sawfly—Those who have this pest in their gardens would do well to spray their trees if they wish to save their apples. The presence of the sawfly may be known by the fact that in June most of the young apples fall to the ground and most of them will be found to be bored by a whitish grub. The egg of the sawfly is deposited in the apple blossom and spraying must be carried out within one week after the blossom has fallen. The formula is Summer oil emulsion one part, water fifty parts, or half-pint to three gallons, with one and a half teaspoons of nicotine sulphate added to each gallon of spray. Owing to war conditions, commercial Summer oil emulsions cannot be imported and must be made at home. Suitable oils are emulsifiers can be obtained from dealers in insecticides. A circular on the sawfly is obtainable at the Department of Agriculture and will be mailed on request. This contains full information regarding making an oil emulsion and the method of applying the spray. Those who desire to spray, should first obtain this information.

TO HOLD AUTOPSY

PEMBROKE, Ont., April 22 (CP)—An autopsy is to be held into the death of Pte. F. N. Taylor, forty, in Petawawa Military Hospital as a result of severe head injuries of undetermined cause. Coroner Dr. J. C. Bradette communicated with the criminal investigation department of the Ontario Provincial Police after investigating the case.

A new chemical, ammonium sulfamate, makes draperies, upholstery and clothing fireproof.

Farmers Complain About New Orders

F. C. Blake, president, and J. B. Edwards, director of the Metchosin Farmers' Institute, plan to interview R. W. Mayhew, M.P., about new Federal Government regulations, which, they claim, will prevent farmers from doing their own butchering for retail sales.

They informed Mayor Andrew McGavin yesterday morning that the new livestock regulations are "disand in favor of big interests."

Mr. Blake said small farmers stood to lose 50 per cent of their profits, and he intended to campaign on Vancouver Island against the new orders.

British War Film Opening in Town

"Desert Victory," the British war picture which has been eagerly awaited by theatre patrons all across Canada, is opening today at the Dominion Theatre. Made in actual battle, "Desert Victory," a British M.O.I. 20th-Fox release, chronicles the career of the British Eighth Army from its retreat to El Alamein until its march past Winston Churchill in Tripoli. The film cost the lives of three photographers and four were taken prisoner. Twenty-five photographers co-operated in the production, exclusive of the Germans and Italians whose captured films were incorporated.

ATLAS THEATRE Songs that used to echo through theatres during the heyday of vaudeville — "I'm Sorry I Made You Cry," "Oh You Beautiful Doll" and a host of others — come to vivid, lilting life once more as sung by Judy Garland, Gene Kelly, George Murphy and others in "For Me and My Gal," dramatic love story told against the background of vaudeville in its palmy days. The picture is now showing at the Atlas Theatre.

RIO THEATRE There are thrills aplenty in "Criminal Investigator," now showing at the Rio Theatre. Robert Lowery and Edith Fellows are seen in the featured roles and do complete justice to their parts, both as the centre of an exciting series of events and as the pair who are the principals in the romantic passages of the story. John Miljan is excellent in the role of an unscrupulous attorney, and others are Charles Jordan, John Maxwell, Jan Wiley, Paul Bryar, George O'Hanlon and Lawrence Creighton.

Amusements

On the Screen

Atlas—"For Me and My Gal," starring Judy Garland and George Murphy.

Cadet—Humphrey Bogart and Mary Astor in "Across the Pacific."

Capitol—"Andy Hardy's Double Life," starring Mickey Rooney and Lewis Stone.

Dominion — "Desert Victory," pictorial record of the Eighth Army in action.

Rio — "Criminal Investigator," with Edith Fellows and Robert Lowery.

York—Clark Gable and Lana Turner in "Somewhere I'll Find You."

YORK THEATRE Robert Sterling has been jilted twice by Lana Turner. In "Johnny Eager," as the daughter of a wealthy industrialist, she turned him down for Robert Taylor. Now in "Somewhere I'll Find You," now playing at the York Theatre, Sterling, as a foreign correspondent, is engaged to Lana, a newspaper woman, but it is Clark Gable who wins her.

OAK BAY AND PLAZA THEATRES Ray Milland, who co-stars with Paulette Goddard in a fast-moving romantic comedy, "The Crystal Ball," which is now showing at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres through United Artists release, receipts for haymaker on the jaw delivered by Ernest Truex in a scene from the picture. It's a full-fledged poke and Milland was happy that it required one take for that scene.

CAPITOL THEATRE William Lundigan, who played Jeff Willis, sweetheart of Marian Hardy in M-G-M's "The Courtship of Andy Hardy," continues his siege of Marian's heart in the latest Hardy production, titled "Andy Hardy's Double Life," now showing at the Capitol Theatre. Lundigan has moved up rapidly since his first appearance in the Hardy family series. He has appeared recently as the male lead in "Sunday Punch" and "Apache Trail."

SPARKLING music and rib-tickling comedy will highlight the show, "London Calling," to be presented by the Victoria Kiwanis Club next Monday and Tuesday in aid of Queen Alexandra Solarium and Kiwanis charitable objectives.

A number of Victoria's most popular artists have lent their services, and the fact that the show is written and produced by Reginald Hincks assures its high standard.

Tickets are now on sale at the theatre box office and Fletcher Bros., Ltd., or from any member of the Kiwanis Club.

Troops at Macaulay Entertained in "Y" Hut by Merrymakers

The Merrymakers Concert Party made its initial appearance last Sunday at the "Y" Hut, Fort Macaulay, to a capacity audience, which consisted of soldiers and members of the C.W.A.C.

Pte. Don Oliver, as master of ceremonies, performed novelty numbers, accompanied in several instances by the whole cast, and Teddy Bragg gave his own versions of popular dance numbers. June Freer appeared in song and dance selections, while John McAllister, Grace Adams, Ralph Glover and Gay Mainer took the stage for vocal solos.

Accordionist Rowley Miles played a solo number, and Ken Jones acted as accompanist for the artists. Fred Bramle was property man. Don Partridge played piano selections, and Pte. Jack Rickaby directed the show.

The whole cast took the stage for the grand finale, a salute to the United Nations. With the singing of "God Bless America," the master of ceremonies displayed the Stars and Stripes, and Russian and other United Nations flags, followed by "God Save the King."

Thanks of the Y.M.C.A. were extended by Jock Morse, secretary, and refreshments were served to the entertainers.
